Artificial Intelligence and Big Data Frans L. Leeuw, Michael Bamberger, 2025-03-12 This timely book explores how Artificial Intelligence AI and Big Data contribute to the evaluation of the rule of law covering legal arrangements empirical legal research law and technology and international law and social and economic development programs in both industrialized and developing countries Issues of ethics and bias in the use of AI are also addressed and indicators of the growth of knowledge in the field are discussed

Life History Research, 2009-01-01 Much has been written about lifehistory research in recent times It has been paraded as a counterculture to the traditional research canon and celebrated as a genre that promotes methodological pluralism However lifehistory researchers have an obligation to transcend spurious claims about the perceived merits of the methodology and extend the debates around how the genre simultaneously problematises and responds to the competing challenges of Epistemology Methodology and Representation In conceiving of each of the chapters from an epistemological perspective the authors focus on how their individual work has crossed or expanded traditional borders of epistemology and ontology of how the work has satisfied the rigours of thesis production and contributed to changing conceptions of knowledge what knowledge gets produced and how knowledge is produced when we make particular methodological choices Since any methodological orientation is invariably selective and the researcher is always involved and implicated in the production of data the authors focus on what selections they have made in their projects what governed these choices what benefits deficits those choices yielded and what the implications of their research are for those meta narratives that have established the regimes of truth legitimacy and veracity in research Knowledge production is inextricably linked to representation In the process of articulating their findings each author made particular representational choices sometimes transgressing conventional approaches The book explores why these choices were made and how the choices influenced the kinds of knowledge generated The book provides theoretical justifications for these transgressions and reflect on how the experience of representation helped disrupt the authors essentialist notions of research production and for whom it is produced This book is not another celebration of lifehistory as a counterculture The book hopes to be a deeply critical contribution to disrupt notions around epistemological authority voice and power and how these are mediated by the delicate relations of the researcher and researched The problematises and complicates the assumptions that frame this genre with a view to highlighting the potential hazards of the method while demonstrating its potentiality in shaping our conceptions of Ethics Methodology and Representation

Towards applying a green infrastructure approach in the Gauteng City-Region Christina Culwick, Samkelisiwe Khanyile, Kerry Bobbins, Stuart

Dunsmore, Anne Fitchett, Lerato Monama, Raishan Naidu, Gillian Sykes, Jennifer van den Bussche, Marco Vieira, 2019-12-11 In the context of heightened climate variability thinking about ways to redesign our urban areas with more sustainable infrastructure solutions is becoming more and more important Green infrastructure GI is emerging as an alternative approach to traditional grey infrastructure in urban planning and development Its emergence can be understood in terms of the growing demand for infrastructure and services increased concerns over natural resource constraints and climate change and the negative impacts associated with traditional approaches to designing and building cities It has been proposed that GI can provide the same services as traditional infrastructure at a similar capital cost while also providing a range of additional benefits However despite the increasing examples of successful urban GI applications traditional infrastructure continues to dominate due to the lack of systematic evidence to support GI implementation As a result there has been an increase in calls from policy and decision makers for a greater evidence base on the benefits of GI as well as for practical guidelines on its implementation Towards applying a green infrastructure approach in the Gauteng City Region is the GCRO s third report in its ongoing research into Green assets and infrastructure The first two reports in this project series were more theoretically grounded and policy oriented whereas this third report is more practical in nature The first report explored the basic principles around GI assessed the extent of ecological features in Gauteng and the way governments in the province think about planning and maintenance of green assets The second report responded to some of the challenges identified in the first report and in particular the importance of government officials and practitioners in exploring how international green infrastructure plans could be applied in the Gauteng context This third report builds on the findings of the aforementioned reports and the project s CityLab series which highlighted the need to build an evidence base as critical for garnering support for and as well as enhancing investment in the GI approach Unlike the more theoretically grounded earlier reports this report comprises four technical sections and practical reflections on how a GI approach could be incorporated into urban planning in the GCR and in other similar urban contexts Local Acts of Violence: Global Issues Rochelle Green, 2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2015 Local Acts of Violence Global Issues shares a history of violence as a means of questioning how we should contend with the often exceedingly disturbing instances of violence in our shared cultural and national pasts Identification and Citizenship in Africa Séverine Awenengo Dalberto, Richard Banégas, 2021-05-09 In the context of a global biometric turn this book investigates processes of legal identification in Africa from below asking what this means for the relationship between citizens and the state Almost half of the population of the African continent is thought to lack a legal identity and many states see biometric technology as a reliable and efficient solution to the problem However this book shows that biometrics far from securing identities and avoiding fraud or political distrust can even participate in reinforcing exclusion and polarizing debates on citizenship and national belonging It highlights the social and political embedding of legal identities and the resilience of the documentary state Drawing on empirical research conducted across 14 countries the book documents the processes practices and meanings of legal identification in Africa from the 1950s right up to the biometric boom Beyond the classic opposition between surveillance and recognition it demonstrates how analysing the social uses of IDs and tools of identification can give a fresh account of the state at work the practices of citizenship and the role of bureaucracy in the writing of the self in African societies This book will be of an important reference for students and scholars of African studies politics human security and anthropology and the sociology of the state Proceedings of the Forty-ninth Pugwash Conference on Science and World Affairs, Rustenburg, South Africa, 7-13 September 1999 Joseph Rotblat, 2001 In September 1999 scientists and scholars from around the world concerned with reducing the danger of armed conflict and seeking cooperative solutions to global problems met under the auspices of the Pugwash conferences the Nobel Prize winning organization The proceedings deal with a broad range of issues including a nuclear weapon free world emerging security threats development environment and international governance

Senses of Culture Sarah Nuttall, Cheryl-Ann Michael, 2000 Everyday life in South Africa has been dominated by the politics of racial identities while such identities form and re form around a range of cultural activities and practices This book traces the important dimensions of cultural activity in late twentieth century South Africa offering a multidisciplinary assessment between culture and politics It also explores the ways in which the place of culture is being rethought since South Africa's transition to democracy Politics in South Africa Tom Lodge, 2003 This well informed and crisply written introduction will appeal to both students of contemporary politics and general readers interested in the new democracy Book jacket
