Invitations to Play Anne Burke,2019-03-06 Through their earliest years of play children develop a substantial body of skills and knowledge The goal of this book is to bring children s play and curriculum expectations together so that children are engaged in learning that honours their existing knowledge and to help build a strong literacy foundation A perfect blend of theory and instruction this timely book offers background research ideas and strategies to create an exciting array of possibilities for using children s play as an infinitely rewarding learning resource It asks and answers fundamental questions about preparing young children for lifelong learning      Fluency and Reading Comprehension in Typical Readers and Dyslexics Readers Simone A. Capellini,Giseli D. Germano,2018-02-22 Reading involves decoding and comprehension components and to become efficient it requires a large number of cognitive and linguistic processes Among those the phonological awareness the alphabetic principle the decoding the fluency the lexical development and the text comprehension development The reading comprehension is strongly related with the development of vocabulary oral language linguistic skills memory skills and ability to make inferences and the world experiences of each individual These processes become important only when the professional needs to deal with students presenting difficulties in learning how to read The difficulty using the knowledge of conversion rules between grapheme and phoneme to the word reading construction characterizes the dyslexia which is a specific learning disorder with a neurological source. These difficulties presented by students with dyslexia interfere in their learning process, impairing the learning development. Knowing and following the reading development and its processes as well as obtaining the punctuation of fluency abilities and students' comprehension allow us to understand what happens when the student presents difficulties to read. This could help in the identification of learning disabilities and in the development of intervention programs.
