

CHAPTER 14: MATERIAL REQUIREMENTS PLANNING AND ENTERPRISE RESOURCE PLANNING

DEPENDENT DEMAND

- Dependent demand: demand for subassemblies, parts, or raw materials that are derived from the plan for production of finished goods.
- Independent demand of most finished goods and supplies is fairly steady once allowances are made for seasonal variations.

OVERVIEW OF MRP

- Enterprise resource planning (ERP): used to manage and coordinate all resources, information, and functions of an organization from a shared database.
- Material requirements planning (MRP): planning and scheduling techniques primarily used for batch production of the components of assembled items.
  - Activity that determines the plans for purchasing and production of dependent-demand components.

MRP INPUTS

- MRP system has three major sources of information:
  1. Master production schedule (MPS): anticipated build schedule stating which end items are to be produced, when, and in what quantities for the next 12 weeks or so.
    - Separates planning horizon into series of time periods or time buckets, which are expressed in weeks or days.
    - Cumulative lead time: sum of the lead times that sequential phases of a process require, from ordering of components to completion of final assembly.
  2. Bill of material (BOM): listing of all subassemblies, parts, and raw materials that are needed to produce one unit of a finished product.
    - Product structure tree: hierarchical diagram of components needed to assemble a product.
    - Special types of BOM:
      - I. Planning bill: combination of several BOMs.
        - Use will result in calculation of right number of components to be purchased or produced.
        - Reduces number of BOM necessary for planning when products have various options.
      - II. Modular bill: a BOM for a module.
        - Used to reduce number of BOMs when product consists of various modes.
      - III. Phantom bill: for item that usually not kept in inventory.
        - No lead time and special stock code.
  3. Inventory levels, lead time, and open orders.

MRP PROCESSING, UPDATING, AND OUTPUTS

- Quantities that are generated by exploding the bills of materials are gross requirements; do not take into account any inventory that is currently on hand or is due to be received.

$$\text{Net requirements in period } t = \text{Gross requirement in period } t - \text{Projected inventory at the start of period } t - \text{Schedule receipts} + \text{Safety stock}$$

- If formula is negative value, then there is no net requirement.
