

The responsibility of administrative bodies

Individual responsibility

- 1. Administrative bodies cannot be held responsible for the actions of their officials, but they can be held responsible for the actions of their officials if they are negligent in the performance of their duties.
 - 2. Administrative bodies are not liable for the actions of their officials if they are negligent in the performance of their duties. This is because the actions of their officials are not the actions of the administrative body itself, but the actions of the individual official. The administrative body is only liable for the actions of its officials if it is negligent in the performance of its duties.
