Question	Answer
What is the main purpose of the study?	The study aims to investigate the relationship between the independent variable (X) and the dependent variable (Y).
What is the independent variable (X)?	The independent variable (X) is the variable that is manipulated or controlled by the researcher.
What is the dependent variable (Y)?	The dependent variable (Y) is the variable that is measured or observed in the study.
What is the research hypothesis?	The research hypothesis is a statement that predicts the outcome of the study, based on the relationship between X and Y.
What is the null hypothesis?	The null hypothesis is a statement that predicts no relationship between X and Y.
What is the significance level?	The significance level is the probability of rejecting the null hypothesis when it is actually true (Type I error).
What is the power of the study?	The power of the study is the probability of rejecting the null hypothesis when it is actually false (Type II error).
What is the effect size?	The effect size is the magnitude of the relationship between X and Y.
What is the confidence interval?	The confidence interval is a range of values that is likely to contain the true population parameter.
What is the p-value?	The p-value is the probability of obtaining the observed results, or more extreme results, if the null hypothesis is true.
What is the conclusion?	The conclusion is the final statement of the study, based on the results of the hypothesis testing.
