

Essay on gender equality

Gender equality is the idea that all people, whether they are boys or girls, should be treated the same. This is important because many times, girls and women are not given the same chances as boys and men. This is not fair and it needs to change. In many places, girls are not allowed to go to school or get good jobs. They are also paid less money for doing the same work.

But gender equality is not just a problem for girls and women. Boys and men are also hurt when we don't have gender equality. Sometimes they are told they can't do certain things because it's not "manly."

People can do many things to help make gender equality happen. Schools can teach kids that all people are equal and should be treated the same. Employers can make sure they give the same chances to everybody, no matter if they are male or female. Everyone can help by speaking up when they see something that is not fair.

Recognizing Connectedness Rajib Nandi, Ratna M. Sudarshan, 2021-09-17 The concept of programme evaluation now more than half a century old refers to the practice of professional assessment of a programme that is informed by evidence and guided by evaluative thinking to arrive at a judgement about value merit worth significance and utility Good programme evaluations in general adopt an inclusive development approach rather than a transformative approach Feminist evaluations by contrast identify a wide range of stakeholders and engage the larger community in order to identify and encourage the programme to challenge social norms that perpetuate inequalities between men and women and other genders The essays in this volume in different ways suggest that gender transformative change cannot happen through the actions or exercise of agency by one group alone whether it is girls or boys or women Instead the authors draw out the
