Neal Stewart Jr., 2004-08-19 Genetically modified plants are currently causing controversy worldwide a great deal has been written about their supposed environmental effects However the newspaper headlines and public debates often provide a level of reasoning akin to this is your brain on genetically modified corn which is to say they exclude or exaggerate the actual scientific research on the impacts of these plants Genetically Modified Planet goes beyond the rhetoric to investigate for concerned consumers the actual state of scientific research on genetically modified plants Stewart argues that while there are indeed real and potential risks of growing engineered crops there are also real and overwhelmingly positive environmental benefits      History of Soybean Variety Development, Breeding and Genetic Engineering (1902-2020) William Shurtleff; Akiko Aoyagi, 2020-06-25 The world's most comprehensive well documented and well illustrated book on this subject With extensive subject and geographic index 152 photographs and illustrations mostly color Free of charge in digital format on Google Books      Good Enough to Eat? Genetics of Host-Specific Toxins in Plant Disease Keisuke Kohmoto, Olen C. Yoder, 2012-12-06 For investigators engaged in the study of toxins generally and host specific toxins in particular it is a rare treat to attend a meeting in which toxins involved in plant pathogenesis are emphasized A gathering of this type provides opportunity to consider the discovery of new toxins their chemical structures genes encoding enzymes that control their biosyntheses their sites of action and physiological effects on plants and their roles if any in pathological processes Having acknowledged the inspiration fostered by a toxin meeting however it is important to point out that the program of this symposium was generously sprinkled with nontoxin talks These contributions generated cross disciplinary discussion and promoted new ways of thinking about relationships among factors required for plant disease development The point can be illustrated by considering just one example We have in the past often regarded diseases mediated by host specific toxins and diseases involving gene for gene relationships as representing two different classes of fungal plant interaction This is largely because the key molecular recognition event in so called toxin diseases leads to compatibility whereas the corresponding event in gene for gene diseases leads to incompatibility Yet the race specific elicitors produced by the gene for gene fungi Cladosporium fulvum De Wit Adv Bot Res 21 147 185 1995 and Rhynchosporium secalis Rohe et al EMBO J
