

VIRUSES

A virus is an infectious agent made up of nucleic acid (DNA or RNA) wrapped in a protein coat called a capsid.

Viruses have no nucleus, no organelles, no cytoplasm or cell membrane - non cellular. This is why they belong to no kingdom.

Viruses have either DNA or RNA, but not both. Viruses with RNA that transcribes into DNA are called retroviruses.

Viruses are parasites - an organism that depends entirely upon another living organism (a host) for its existence. In fact a way that the host is harmed.

Diagram representing influenza

How a virus spreads

- 1) Virus attaches to the cell
- 2) Surface is injected into the cell
- 3) Surface is copied
- 4) Virus copies itself
- 5) Cell bursts (lyses) and releases new viruses

Diagram representing Bacteriophage

Bacteriophage are viruses that infect bacteria.

Non viral parasites have protein only, no DNA/RNA. It's the cause of mad cow disease, Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease and prions.

Reproduction is how a virus spreads. Viruses can not reproduce by themselves. It must invade a host cell and take over all cell activities eventually leading destruction of the cell and using it.

Likewise viruses can only attack certain cell types. They are said to be specific.

The virus has surface markings. The cell has receptor sites.

Cells like the pieces of a puzzle. The ends have to match up so only certain pieces fit.
