A New Dictionary of the Italian and English Languages Based Upon that of Baretta ... Compiled by John Davenport and Guglielmo Comelati ,1868 A New Dictionary of the Italian and English Language, Based Upon that of Baretta and Containing, Among Other Additions and Improvements, Numerous Neologisms... ,1854 The Lord Is Risen He Is Risen Indeed! He Really Is Richard Sheffield,1998 Richard Sheffield s preaching is stimulating and unique Whenever I am burdened or under pressure his pithy insights into the Gospel of our Lord refresh my spirit They sometimes also sting my soul to pay attention to more significant things in life than preoccupying problems He is also a courageous preacher when he says things we all think or doubt and dare not to express He handles life's misgivings kindly and cleanly so that listening to him is a religious experience This comes about because he came to the temple of religion through the corridors of commerce and knows the real world of his laymen Under his gentle manner there is the fire of Peter Thomas and St Paul all of whom also preached with integrity and conviction Bryant Kirkland Minister Emeritus Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church New York New York At first glance the Easter title may seem out of place for a book half full of sermons for Lent But Richard Sheffield argues and preaches that the sermon for Easter Day is really the sermon for every day in the life of a Christian The Lord Is Risen is really the only sermon we have or need to have How we live out our lives in response to that central fact of our faith fills the sermons in Lent as well as Easter with hope Hope in the here and now as well as in the hereafter Rev Sheffield has little patience with those who would turn the good news about God into the bad news about us and it shows He writes Belief is more than just ascertaining the facts and figures of faith Or figuring out the best way to keep God happy long enough to get into heaven Belief is living life now certain of the love of God in Jesus Christ for you and me Living life unafraid even of death itself Richard L Sheffield is senior pastor of Market Street Presbyterian Church Lima Ohio He holds a Master of Divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary and an M B A degree from the University of Chicago He is a candidate for the Doctor of Ministry degree at Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary

An Etymological Dictionary of the English Language Walter William Skeat, 1893 Climbing in The British Isles (Complete) Henry Chichester Hart, For some years past there has been a remarkably rapid increase in the number of men who climb for climbing's sake within the bounds of the British Isles When any young and active Englishman sees a rock and is told that the ascent of it is regarded as a kind of feat there is no doubt what he will want to do He will obey what has been the instinct of the race at any time this forty years But lately there has been a change What was formerly done casually and instinctively has for the last dozen years or so been done systematically and of set purpose for it is now recognised that hill climbing in these islands may form part of a real mountaineering education Many might be mountaineers have missed their vocation because they were in the position of the prudent individual who would not go into the water until after he should have learned to swim they did not become Alpine because they were afraid that they should make fools of themselves if they went on the Alps Yet had they only known it they might have found without crossing the sea many a place which might have been to their undeveloped instincts what the little pond at the end of the garden has been to many a would be skater a quiet spot where early flounderings would be safe from the contemptuous glances of unsympathetic experts Iceman'ship can only be acquired through a long apprenticeship by tramping many a weary mile helplessly tied to the tail of a guide But one principal charm of hill climbing lies in the fact that it may be picked up by self directed practice and does not demand the same preliminary subjection The course of Alpine instruction can only be considered complete when Mr Girdlestone's ideal of The High Alps without Guides is realised an ideal be it clearly understood which for fully ninety nine out of every hundred climbers it would be downright madness to attempt to carry into practice whereas while rock climbing may be enjoyed by amateurs without incurring the reproach of recklessness they at the same time experience the exquisite pleasure of forming their own plans of attack of varying the execution of them according to their own judgment and finally of meeting obstacles as they arise with their own skill and with their own strength and overcoming them without the assistance of a hired professional Nowhere can the mere manual dexterity of climbing be better acquired than among the fells of Cumberland excellent practising ground presents itself on nearly every hill Compared with real mountains the crags of Cumberland are but toys but small as they are they have made many and many a fine climber and the man who has gone through a course of training among them who has learnt to know the exact length of his own stride and reach and to wriggle up a chimney in approved style with shoulder hip and knee may boldly fly at higher game and when he proceeds to tackle the giants of the Alps or Caucasus has no cause to be afraid of the result As if with the express object of increasing their educational value to the mountaineer the hilly parts of Great Britain are peculiarly subject to atmospheric changes No one who has not experienced their effects would believe the extent to which mist snow and even rain can change the appearance of landmarks among the mountains and where landmarks are less abundant or less striking even the buffeting of violent wind may cause an inexperienced man to change his direction unconsciously Valuable experience in things of this kind may be gained even in summer but in winter the conditions become more Alpine and splendid practice may be had in the use of the axe and rope
