Cultural Heritage Politics in China Tami Blumenfield, Helaine Silverman, 2013-05-14 This volume explores China's cultural heritage ideology and policies from three interrelated perspectives the State and World Heritage tourism cultural heritage tourism at undesignated sites and the cultural politics of museums and collections Something of a cultural heritage designation craze is happening in China This is new within even the last five to ten years Officials at many levels now see heritage preservation as a means for commoditizing their regions They are devoting new resources and attention to national and international heritage designations Thus addressing cultural heritage politics in a nation dedicated to designation is an important project particularly in the context of a rapidly growing economy This volume is also important because it addresses a very wide range of cultural heritage providing an excellent sample of case studies historic vernacular urban environments ethnic tourism scenic tourism pilgrimage as tourism tourism and economic development museums border heritage underwater remains and the actual governance and management of the sites This volume is an outstanding introduction to cultural heritage issues in China while contributing to Chinese studies for those with greater knowledge of the area

Medieval Memories Elisabeth Van-Houts, 2013-09-13 Who exactly was responsible for the preservation of knowledge about the past How did people preserve their recollections and pass them on to the next generation Did they write them down or did they hand them on orally The book is concerned with the memories of medieval people In the Middle Ages as now men and women collected stories about the past and handed them down to posterity Many memories centre in the aristocratic family or lineage while others are focussed on institutions such as monasteries or nunneries The family and monastic contexts clearly illustrate that remembrance of the past was a task for men and women and that each sex had a specific gendered role Memory also involves selection of what should and should not be remembered and its corollary amnesia therefore is discussed Anchored in the present memory casts a shadow on the future and thus prophecies form an important component of the cult of remembrance For the first time in Medieval Memories tombstones medieval encyclopaedias and legal testimonies figure alongside moral guidebooks miracle stories and chronicles as material for the gendered perceptions of the medieval past Index to Media and Materials for the Mentally Retarded, Specific

Statuary from Royal Buildings at Amarna Marsha Hill, Kristin Thompson, 2024-04-15

Over more than a century and a quarter of excavations the royal and administrative buildings in the city of Amarna have yielded the remains of many hundreds of statues that had been part of Akhenaten's visionary plan. But fragmentation and dispersal have up until now made the results almost invisible. Only a relatively small number of the original statues have been widely known even to experts. The present publication brings together all these traces of the city's past to reveal the abundance, beauty, variety and novelty of the statuary and to begin the process of reintegrating it in considerations of the temples and palaces of the city. The work is presented in two parts. The first volume presents extensive observations about the creation of the statuary comprising chapters dealing with the range of materials and the methods of working them; a detailed explication of the novel creation of composite statuary; and an overview of the workshop buildings that have been identified so far at Amarna. In the second volume the excavated fragments themselves, most of them previously unpublished, are catalogued in a series of chapters devoted to individual royal buildings. The original statues are envisioned and analysed for their contexts, resulting in new information about these buildings, the intentions and concerns behind them, and the evolution in those intentions.
