Reducing Greenhouse Gases Stewart Boyle,1989 Climate Change Atlas A. Henderson-Sellers,Ann-Maree Hansen,1995-01-01 Concentrations of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere have been increasing since the Industrial Revolution prompting concern that these increases could result in global and regional climate change The impacts of this enhanced greenhouse effect are not yet fully understood and may depend on both the degree and the speed of climate change Changing by Degrees ,1991 The Greenhouse Effect ,1993 An objective assessment of the greenhouse effect and the ongoing public and scientific debate over global warming Changing by degrees : steps to reduce greenhouse gases. ,1991 Greenhouse Effect: Evidence Great Britain. Sims,1995 Verifying Greenhouse Gas Emissions National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Board on Atmospheric Sciences and Climate,Committee on Methods for Estimating Greenhouse Gas Emissions,2010-07-28 The world s nations are moving toward agreements that will bind us together in an effort to limit future greenhouse gas emissions With such agreements will come the need for all nations to make accurate estimates of greenhouse gas emissions and to monitor changes over time In this context the present book focuses on the greenhouse gases that result from human activities have long lifetimes in the atmosphere and thus will change global climate for decades to millennia or more and are currently included in international agreements The book devotes considerably more space to CO₂ than to the other gases because CO₂ is the largest single contributor to global climate change and is thus the focus of many mitigation efforts Only data in the public domain were considered because public access and transparency are necessary to build trust in a climate treaty The book concludes that each country could estimate fossil fuel CO₂ emissions accurately enough to support monitoring of a climate treaty However current methods are not sufficiently accurate to check these self reported estimates against independent data or to estimate other greenhouse gas emissions Strategic investments would within 5 years improve reporting of emissions by countries and yield a useful capability for independent verification of greenhouse gas emissions reported by countries The Greenhouse Effect Tim Hewat,1989-01-01 Greenhouse effect and climate change
