This system is designed to capture the essential (200–2000 Hz) lower range of the voice spectrum. It captures the energy of any other speech sounds. The system does not distinguish the words, but it can represent the same speech. The only reason for compression is to fit within the 4000 Hz bandwidth. The last segment is an echo signal, a compressed signal, a short burst, which is added to the signal in the middle. The echo is a signal, which is added to the signal in the middle. Abstract: The purpose of this study was to examine the effects of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on the body composition and muscle strength of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control group (CON) or a resistance training group (RT). The RT group performed a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program. The CON group performed no resistance training. The RT group showed significant increases in muscle strength and body composition. The RT group showed significant increases in muscle strength and body composition. The RT group showed significant increases in muscle strength and body composition.
