Australian Women in Advertising in the Twentieth Century J. Dickenson, 2016-04-29 When did Australian women first enter the advertising industry The stereotypical advertising executive might be a pony tailed Ferrari driving young ish man but women have worked in Australian advertising agencies from the first years of the modern industry and today they comprise half of the industry s workforce Australian Women in Advertising in the Twentieth Century rescues these women from their obscurity By employing a broader definition of advertising than usual this study reveals the important role women have played in the development of the Australian advertising industry sheds light on women s struggle to reach the higher echelons of the industry and considers why the popular image of the advertising executive is at such variance from the reality The experiences of these remarkable women across a century of Australian advertising provide valuable information on the role of gender in the development of this ubiquitous industry as well as the encroachment of consumer culture Green with Milk and Sugar Robert Hellyer, 2021-10-29 Today Americans are some of the world s biggest consumers of black teas in Japan green tea especially sencha is preferred These national partialities Robert Hellyer reveals are deeply entwined Tracing the transpacific tea trade from the eighteenth century onward Green with Milk and Sugar shows how interconnections between Japan and the United States have influenced the daily habits of people in both countries Hellyer explores the forgotten American penchant for Japanese green tea and how it shaped Japanese tastes In the nineteenth century Americans favored green teas which were imported from China until Japan developed an export industry centered on the United States The influx of Japanese imports democratized green tea Americans of all classes particularly Midwesterners made it their daily beverage which they drank hot often with milk and sugar In the 1920s socioeconomic trends and racial prejudices pushed Americans toward black teas from Ceylon and India Facing a glut Japanese merchants aggressively marketed sencha on their home and imperial markets transforming it into an icon of Japanese culture Featuring lively stories of the people involved in the tea trade including samurai turned tea farmers and Hellyer s own ancestors Green with Milk and Sugar offers not only a social and commodity history of tea in the United States and Japan but also new insights into how national customs have profound if often hidden international dimensions Designing One Nation Katrin Schreiter, 2020-07-13 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International License It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations thanks to a generous grant from the Andrew W Mellon Foundation The histories of East and West Germany traditionally emphasize the Cold War rivalries between the communist and capitalist nations Yet even as the countries diverged in their political directions they had to create new ways of working together economically In Designing One Nation Katrin Schreiter examines the material culture of increasing economic contacts in divided Germany from the 1940s until the 1990s Trade events such as fairs and product shows became one of the few venues for sustained links and knowledge between the two countries after the building of the Berlin Wall Schreier uses industrial design epitomized by the furniture industry to show how a network of politicians entrepreneurs and cultural brokers attempted to nationally re inscribe their production cultures define a postwar German identity and regain economic stability and political influence in postwar Europe What started as a competition for ideological superiority between East and West Germany quickly turned into a shared politically legitimizing quest for an untainted post fascist modernity This work follows products from the drawing board into the homes of ordinary Germans to offer insights into how converging visions of German industrial modernity created shared expectations about economic progress and living standards Schreier reveals how intra German and European trade policies drove the creation of products and generated a certain convergence of East and West German taste by the 1980s Drawing on a wide range of sources from governments furniture firms industrial design councils home lifestyle magazines and design exhibitions Designing One Nation argues that an economic culture linked the two Germanies even before reunification in 1990 Annual Report of the Secretary of
