PLOTTO Genie: For Flash Fiction and Short Stories Wycliffe A. Hill, 2017-10-08 Content Structure for Flash Fiction has never been so simple and fast What if all story ideas were able to be boiled down to a single formula Wycliffe A Hill had this idea in the 1930 s when no less than Cecil B DeMille rejected one of his stories because it had a good narrative but no drama This led Hill to research what made a dramatic story Diving into the problem that the growing movie industry had for volume treatments to feed their industry Hill created a device to harvest these many different possibilities for plot creation The original Genie he produced was to explore the idea of a formulaic basis for stories For Flash Fiction the work is even more daunting as it s not a question of filling in more conflict action or romance by adding words The object of this book is more for education of the author in the basics of how to string a plot together and maybe a solution to any writer s block Win the day Get Your Copy Now      Short Story Theories ,2015-06-29

Abruptions: 3 Minute Stories to Awaken the Mind Jack Matthews, 2017-10-11 Matthews stories are like friends from small towns They are honest warm occasionally lyrical and as strange and idiosyncratic as the rest of us Arthur Sabatini During the last decade of his life author Jack Matthews wrote a series of 1 2 page prose pieces which he dubbed Abruptions or very short stories that end abruptly Matthews had already published over 20 books of fiction with an astonishing variety of characters and plots This last volume hints at a lot of characters and plots without trying to resolve them Each abruption which rarely takes more than 5 minutes to read shed light on something unexpected whether it be a character's view on life or the reader's notions of how the world ought to work Many episodes read like contemporary fables or sketches of quirky people from small midwest towns Two older women have a long running feud about what flowers should go on the fence between their houses An actor makes a living out of playing the bad Nazi in movies An owner of a movie studio in the 1930s throws out any audience member who misbehaves during a movie An office worker is distracted by a pretty woman washing the outside windows Other stories sound like wild fairy tales What if one superintelligent Siamese twin were conjoined with an idiot brother What if a witch's curse caused every third word uttered by a person to go unsaid What if a woman has terrifying dreams about a missing watch Some stories simply ponder the imponderable Why do certain memories persist or reappear Why do elderly people become set in their ways Why do people become blind to certain things Matthews explains in the book's preface that abruptions can reach down to dimensions of wonder and speculation that are commonly thought to be the proper domain of poetry These stories are a fitting coda for Matthew's career as a storyteller As deep and dark as these abruptions can become they are told with simple language flashes of humor and a sage's sense of wonder and irony
