The Complete Book of Colleges, 2013 Edition Princeton Review, 2012-08-07 Profiles every four year college in the United States providing detailed information on academic programs admissions requirements financial aid services housing athletics contact names and campus life EFA Global Monitoring Report - 2013-2014 - Teaching and Learning Achieving quality for all UNESCO, 2014-02-04 The 2013 2014 Education for All Global Monitoring Report shows that a lack of attention to education quality and a failure to reach the marginalized have contributed to a learning crisis that needs urgent attention Worldwide 250 million children many of them from disadvantaged backgrounds are not learning the basics Teaching and Learning Achieving Quality for All describes how policy makers can support and sustain a quality education system for all children regardless of background by providing the best teachers The Report also documents global progress in achieving Education for All goals and provides lessons for setting a new education agenda post 2015 In addition the Report identifies that insufficient financing is hindering advances in education How to Read Texts Neil McCaw, 2013-09-26 Now in its second edition How to Read Texts introduces students to key critical approaches to literary texts and offers a practical introduction for students developing their own critical and close reading skills Written in a lively jargon free style it explains critical concepts approaches and ideas including Debates around critical theory The role of history and context The links between creativity and criticism The relationship between author reader and text The new edition now includes guidance on analysing a range of multi media texts including film and online media as well as the purely literary In addition to new practical examples readings exercises and checkpoints that help students to build confidence in their own critical readings of both primary and secondary texts the book now also offers guidance on writing fully formed critical essays and tips for independent research Comprehensively updated and revised throughout How to Read Texts is an indispensable guide for students making the transition to university study Algorithmic Regulation Karen Yeung, Martin Lodge, 2019-09-12 As the power and sophistication of big data and predictive analytics has continued to expand so too has policy and public concern about the use of algorithms in contemporary life This is hardly surprising given our increasing reliance on algorithms in daily life touching policy sectors from healthcare transport finance consumer retail manufacturing education and employment through to public service provision and the operation of the criminal justice system This has prompted concerns about the need and importance of holding algorithmic power to account yet it is far from clear that existing legal and other oversight mechanisms are up to the task This collection of essays edited by two leading regulatory governance scholars offers a critical exploration of algorithmic regulation understood both as a means for coordinating and regulating social action and decision making as well as the need for institutional mechanisms through which the power of algorithms and algorithmic systems might themselves be regulated It offers a unique perspective that is likely to become a significant reference point for the ever growing debates about the power of algorithms in daily life in the worlds of research policy and practice The range of contributors are drawn from a broad range of disciplinary perspectives including law public administration applied philosophy data science and artificial intelligence Taken together they highlight the rise of algorithmic power the potential benefits and risks associated with this power the way in which Sheila Jasanoff's long standing claim that technology is politics has been thrown into sharp relief by the speed and scale at which algorithmic systems are proliferating and the urgent need for wider public debate and engagement of their underlying values and value trade offs the way in which they affect individual and collective decision making and action and effective and legitimate mechanisms by and through which algorithmic power is held to account

Effectiveness of teachers' guides in the Global South Benjamin Piper, Yasmin Sitabkhan, Jessica Mejia, Kellie Betts, 2018-05-10 This report presents the results of RTI International Education's study on teachers' guides across 13 countries and 19 projects Using quantitative and qualitative methods we examine how teachers' guides across the projects differ and find substantial variation in the design and structure of the documents We develop a scripting index so that the scripting levels of the guides can be compared across projects The impact results of the programs that use teachers' guides show significant impacts on learning outcomes associated with approximately an additional half year of learning showing that structured teachers' guides contribute to improved learning outcomes During observations we find that teachers make a variety of changes in their classroom instruction from how the guides are written showing that the utilization of structured teachers' guides do not create robotic teachers unable to use their own professional skills to teach children Unfortunately many changes that teachers make reduce the amount of group work and interactivity that was described in the guides suggesting that programs should encourage teachers to more heavily utilize the instructional routines designed in the guide The report includes a set of research based guidelines that material developers can use to develop teachers' guides that will support effective instructional practices and help improve learning outcomes The key takeaway from the report is that structured teachers' guides improve learning outcomes but that overly scripted teachers' guides are somewhat less effective than simplified teachers' guides that give specific guidance to the teacher but are not written word for word for each lesson in the guide

Teaching and learning: achieving quality for all UNESCO,2014-07-14 Education in Languages of Lesser Power Craig Alan Volker,Fred E. Anderson,2015-02-15 The cultural diversity of the Asia Pacific region is reflected in a multitude of linguistic ecologies of languages of lesser power i e of indigenous and immigrant languages whose speakers lack collective linguistic power especially in education This volume looks at a representative sampling of such communities Some receive strong government support while others receive none For some indigenous languages the same government schools that once tried to stamp out indigenous languages are now the vehicles of language revival As the various chapters in this book show some parents strongly support the use of languages other than the national language in education while others are actively against it and perhaps a majority have ambivalent feelings The overall meta theme that emerges from the collection is the need to view the teaching and learning of these languages in relation to the different needs of the speakers within a sociolinguistics of mobility
