Disaster Risks and Hazards Rosemary Kasimba, Innocent Chirisa, 2025-07-18 This book discusses disaster risks and hazards as well as measures to increase people's resilience The 21st Century has experienced a number of disasters that resulted in hampering socio economic development the loss of lives and property hence they are a threat to sustainable development Disaster risk management efforts and practices have failed to arrest the underlying drivers of increased global risk No country is immune to disaster risk thus resilience has become a critical component of disaster management It provides an opportunity to confront the social ecological foundations of disasters However it has been vaguely conceptualised and lacks a concrete approach to operationalization Some developing countries are gradually coming to realise that preparedness hazard mapping prediction risk and vulnerability assessment and planning are critical for increasing resilience and reducing losses following disasters A paradigm shift is required from reactionary to proactive measures in disaster management as the later focuses more on increasing the resilience of the community Zimbabwe s disaster management policy of 1979 is in the process of review following Cyclone Idai in March 2019 and the Corona Virus 19 COVID 19 Furthermore the consequences of climate change disaster are being felt with across the world particularly developing countries whose preparatory measures for such disasters are inadequate Disasters have become inevitable and no country is every country is vulnerable to them In the event of these disasters the vulnerable people are at risk and are affected more as majority of them are not able to cope In developed countries measures are in place to assist the vulnerable in the event that a disaster strikes However Zimbabwe being a developing country is not able to deal with unpredictable disasters due to lack of resources hence the need for it to adopt mitigatory and transformative measures to reduce the impact of any form of disasters

C. Mohr,Ming Hsu,2015-06-16 Most decisions in life are based on incomplete information and have uncertain consequences To successfully cope with real life situations the nervous system has to estimate represent and eventually resolve uncertainty at various levels A common tradeoff in such decisions involves those between the magnitude of the expected rewards and the uncertainty of obtaining the rewards For instance a decision maker may choose to forgo the high expected rewards of investing in the stock market and settle instead for the lower expected reward and much less uncertainty of a savings account Little is known about how different forms of uncertainty such as risk or ambiguity are processed and learned about and how they are integrated with expected rewards and individual preferences throughout the decision making process With this Research Topic we aim to provide a deeper and more detailed understanding of the processes behind decision making under uncertainty Building sustainable city region food systems to increase resilience and cope with crises Francesco Orsini,Matteo Vittuari,Stefano Corsi,Dirk Wascher,Beatrice Walthall,Christian Bugge Henriksen,Candice Shoemaker,Myriam Paredes,2023-07-26 Sustainable Water Management Solutions for Large Cities International Association of Hydrological Sciences. Data Analytics for Smart Cities Amir Alavi,William G. Buttler,2018-10-26 The development of smart cities is one of the most important challenges over the next few decades Governments and companies are leveraging billions of dollars in public and private funds for smart cities Next generation smart cities are heavily dependent on distributed smart sensing systems and devices to monitor the urban infrastructure The smart sensor networks serve as autonomous intelligent nodes to measure a variety of physical or environmental parameters They should react in time establish automated control and collect information for intelligent decision making In this context one of the major tasks is to develop advanced frameworks for the interpretation of the huge amount of information provided by the emerging testing and monitoring systems Data Analytics for Smart Cities brings together some of the most exciting new developments in the area of integrating advanced data analytics systems into smart cities along with complementary technological paradigms such as cloud computing and Internet of Things IoT The book serves as a reference for researchers and engineers in domains of advanced computation optimization and data mining for smart civil infrastructure condition assessment dynamic visualization intelligent transportation systems ITS cyber physical systems and smart construction technologies The chapters are presented in a hands on manner to facilitate researchers in tackling applications Arguably data analytics technologies play a key role in tackling the challenge of creating smart cities Data analytics applications involve collecting integrating and preparing time and space dependent data produced by sensors complex engineered systems and physical assets followed by developing and testing analytical models to verify the accuracy of results This book covers this multidisciplinary field and examines multiple paradigms such as machine learning pattern recognition statistics intelligent databases knowledge acquisition data visualization high performance computing and expert systems The book explores new territory by discussing the cutting edge concept of Big Data analytics for interpreting massive amounts of data in smart city applications

Decision Neuroscience Jean-Claude Dreher,Léon Tremblay,2016-09-27 Decision Neuroscience addresses fundamental questions about how the brain makes perceptual value based and more complex decisions in non social and social contexts This book presents compelling neuroimaging electrophysiological lesional and neurocomputational models in combination with hormonal and genetic approaches which have led to a clearer understanding of the neural mechanisms behind how the

brain makes decisions The five parts of the book address distinct but inter related topics and are designed to serve both as classroom introductions to major subareas in decision neuroscience and as advanced syntheses of all that has been accomplished in the last decade Part I is devoted to anatomical neurophysiological pharmacological and optogenetics animal studies on reinforcement guided decision making such as the representation of instructions expectations and outcomes the updating of action values and the evaluation process guiding choices between prospective rewards Part II covers the topic of the neural representations of motivation perceptual decision making and value based decision making in humans combining neurcomputational models and brain imaging studies Part III focuses on the rapidly developing field of social decision neuroscience integrating recent mechanistic understanding of social decisions in both non human primates and humans Part IV covers clinical aspects involving disorders of decision making that link together basic research areas including systems cognitive and clinical neuroscience this part examines dysfunctions of decision making in neurological and psychiatric disorders such as Parkinson s disease schizophrenia behavioral addictions and focal brain lesions Part V focuses on the roles of various hormones cortisol oxytocin ghrelin leptine and genes that underlie inter individual differences observed with stress food choices and social decision making processes The volume is essential reading for anyone interested in decision making neuroscience With contributions that are forward looking assessments of the current and future issues faced by researchers Decision Neuroscience is essential reading for anyone interested in decision making neuroscience Provides comprehensive coverage of approaches to studying individual and social decision neuroscience including primate neurophysiology brain imaging in healthy humans and in various disorders and genetic and hormonal influences on decision making Covers multiple levels of analysis from molecular mechanisms to neural systems dynamics and computational models of how we make choices Discusses clinical implications of process dysfunctions including schizophrenia Parkinson s disease eating disorders drug addiction and pathological gambling Features chapters from top international researchers in the field and full color presentation throughout with numerous illustrations to highlight key concepts

Interdisciplinary Environmental Solutions
Barnali Dixon, 2025-07-02 This textbook presents a clear and accessible argument for sustainable planning and development The book discusses multiple environmental issues and examines how potential solutions can and should be addressed in the context of space and place The book also offers an invaluable discussion on the need for a framework for system based thinking where various disciplines should work together to find innovative solutions Students are provided with an appreciation of the need for an interdisciplinary approach to these issues combined with an underlying sense of space an appreciation of cultural diversity and differences as well as associated insights into human relationships These core attributes put space at the heart of environmental and natural resources management in terms of policy planning and on the ground initiatives This book will be an invaluable reference for advanced undergraduate graduate students and researchers working in the field looking for an accessible overview of this interdisciplinary approach to the topic

Geo-information Management Seppe Cassettari, 2012-12-06 This book was inspired by the revolution in geographical information systems during the late 1970s and 1980s which introduced to many the concept of computer based information systems for spatially referenced data The map the aerial photograph and the satellite image were wedded to a database of textual information through the rapidly developing technology of powerful graphics workstations This brought the skills of the geographer to a wide range of disciplines and specialists But this book is not about the basic concepts of geographical information systems themselves It is not about hardware or software per se nor the integral concepts of geo referenced data handling built into such systems these are to be found in a growing number of introductory texts on the subject Instead the focus of this book is on of geo information management the much wider issues While an understanding of the systems their capabilities and limitations is necessary of greater importance to the long term application of geographical understanding to problem solving is the wider context of information handling Spatial data are becoming increasingly important in understanding the issues that confront the world Chapter 1 is a discussion of the general issues which relate to management and information systems It concludes with review of spatial decision support systems which are of increasing importance to the GIS community
