Trends in Neuroimmunology: cross-talk between brain-resident and peripheral immune cells in both health and disease

Estela Maris Muñoz,Rajnikant Mishra ,Veronica Martinez Cerdeño,Janina Edith Borgonovo,Shashank Kumar Maurya ,Suryanarayan Biswal,2024-06-26 The functional anatomy of organisms is maintained by the coordination of different systems that often rely on particular interactions between specialized cells and between macromolecules The immune system works with the circulatory and the lymphatic systems to protect most of the organs However some organs are considered immune privileged due to the presence of highly selective and regulated barriers such as the blood brain barrier BBB within the brain The BBB controls periphery brain molecule exchange and prevents immune effector cells from entering the homeostatic brain BBB associated elements such as endothelial cells pericytes astrocytes and microglia potentially can function as antigen presenting cells APC Pathological scenarios that induce dysfunction of the BBB and its associated cells may lead to the infiltration of lymphocytes crossing over from the blood to brain Similarly traumas can also enable B and T lymphocytes to pass bidirectionally between the CNS and the periphery via the meningeal lymphatic vessels which drain into the cervical lymph nodes Research in animals and in humans has revealed that B and T cells are involved in the progression of neurological diseases It has been showed that under particular conditions T cells establish themselves and become resident in the brain T RM cells from where they can either exert beneficial or detrimental effects on brain function Amazing efforts have been made to further comprehend interactions between brain specific cells and peripheral immune cells and especially their roles and impact on the onset progression and eventual resolution of diverse brain pathologies Musculoskeletal and Sports Medicine For The Primary Care Practitioner, Fourth Edition Richard B. An Epidemic of Absence Moises Velasquez-Manoff,2012-09-04 Whether it is asthma food or pollen allergies type 1 diabetes lupus multiple sclerosis or Crohn s disease everyone knows someone who suffers from an allergic or autoimmune disorder And if it appears that the prevalence of these maladies has increased recently that s because it has to levels never before seen in human history These days no fewer than one in five and likely more Americans suffer from one of these ailments We seem newly and bafflingly vulnerable to immune system malfunction Why Science writer Moises Velasquez Manoff explains the latest thinking about this problem and explores the remarkable new treatments in the works In the past 150 years improved sanitation water treatment and the advent of vaccines and antibiotics have saved countless lives nearly eradicating diseases that had plagued humanity for millennia But now a growing body of evidence suggests that the very steps we took to combat infections also eliminated organisms that kept our bodies in balance The idea that we have systematically cleaned ourselves to illness challenges deeply entrenched notions about the value of societal hygiene and the harmful nature of microbes Yet scientists investigating the rampant immune dysfunction in the developed world have inevitably arrived at this conclusion To address this global epidemic of absence they must restore the human ecosystem
