Muller, Csaba Olay, 2017-09-01 There is no need to argue for the relevance of affectivity in early modern philosophy When doing research and conceptualizing affectivity in this period we hope to attain a basic interpretive framework for philosophy in general one that is independent of and cutting across such unfruitful divisions as the time honored interpretive distinction between rationalists and empiricists which we consider untenable when applied to 17th century thinkers Our volume consists of papers based on the contributions to the First Budapest Seminar in Early Modern Philosophy held on 14 15 October 2016 at Eötvös Loránd University Budapest When composing this volume our aim was not to present a systematic survey of affectivity in early modern philosophy Rather our more modest goal was to foster collaboration among researchers working in different countries and different traditions Many of the papers published here are already in implicit or explicit dialogue with others We hope that they will generate more of an exchange of ideas in the broader field of early modern scholarship Studies in Hellenistic Religions Luther H. Martin, 2018-02-26 This selection of essays by Luther Martin brings together studies from throughout his career both early as well as more recent in the various areas of Graeco Roman religions including mystery cults Judaism Christianity and Gnosticism It is hoped that these studies which represent spatial communal and cognitive approaches to the study of ancient religions might be of interest to those concerned with the structures and dynamics of religions past in general as well as to scholars who might with more recent historical research confirm evaluate extend or refute the hypotheses offered here for that is the way scholars work and by which scholarship proceeds The Praeger Handbook of Religion and Education in the United States James C.
