Imagines of Mary

by Brant Pitre and the Aquinas Institute team

The Church has celebrated the feast of the Annunciation for centuries. It is a day when we remember the moment when the Holy Spirit came upon the Virgin Mary, and the Word of God became flesh. This feast is a celebration of the Incarnation, the moment when God entered our world in the person of Jesus Christ. It is a day of joy and hope, for it is the day when God became one of us, and we became one with God.

Imagines of Mary are a beautiful way to remember the many ways in which Mary has been depicted in art and literature. From the Annunciation to the Visitation, from the Nativity to the Crucifixion, Mary has been shown in many different ways. Each image tells a story, and each story is a part of the larger story of the Christian faith. By looking at these images, we can learn more about Mary and the life of Jesus Christ. We can also learn more about ourselves, for Mary is a model of faith and hope for all of us.

In the Annunciation, the angel Gabriel told the Virgin Mary that she was to become the mother of the Son of God. This was a moment of great joy and hope for Mary, but it was also a moment of great fear and uncertainty. She was a young woman, unmarried, and she was being told that she was to become the mother of a child who was the Son of God. This was a great responsibility, and it was one that she took very seriously.

In the Visitation, Mary visited her cousin Elizabeth. Elizabeth was an elderly woman, and she was also pregnant. When Mary arrived, Elizabeth was overjoyed to see her, and she recognized Mary as the one who was to become the mother of the Messiah. This was a moment of great joy and hope for both women, and it was a moment that was filled with the presence of the Holy Spirit.

In the Nativity, Mary gave birth to Jesus Christ in a stable. This was a humble and lowly birth, and it was a birth that was filled with the presence of the Holy Spirit. Mary was a young woman, and she was alone with her newborn child. Yet, she was filled with love and joy, and she was the mother of the Son of God.

These are just a few of the many ways in which Mary has been depicted in art and literature. Each image tells a story, and each story is a part of the larger story of the Christian faith. By looking at these images, we can learn more about Mary and the life of Jesus Christ. We can also learn more about ourselves, for Mary is a model of faith and hope for all of us.
