

Hate

I hate myself for this

I hate this person I've become

I hate who I am and who I thought I would never be

I hate my father for making me this way

I hate the selfishness I have now become

I hate the endless pain I put people through

I hate the way I hide myself in this pain

I hate the crazy world I'm living in called my life

I hate when my friends suffer because of my problems

I hate the fact that everything I've worked so hard not to be is what defines me

I hate that people can't see who I really am

I hate that my heart is broken with no one to put it back together

Stay out of my life

Becoming Rob Wilson, 2025-02-14 From disappearing coral reefs and ocean acidification to floating great garbage patches the Pacific Ocean is an ever present reminder of the Anthropocene In Oceanic Becoming Rob Wilson demonstrates that in the midst of the planetary crises the Pacific now faces it must be understood as interconnected to the other oceans Wilson frames this interconnection as Oceania reconceiving the world oceans as tied to sites of urban dwelling and life sustenance from Boston to Brisbane that are increasingly threatened by late capitalism Confronting these threats Wilson argues requires a project he theorizes as worlding a process of world making and world remaking across Oceania that would create new forms of belonging and connection at local regional and transnational levels Wilson shows how Oceania is not just a site of peril but one charged with emergent literary and social formations that can provide the basis for new solidarities futures and ecologies
