Facts About Rainforest Masks:

Animism in Rainforest and Tundra Marc Brightman, Vanessa Elisa Grotti, Olga Ulturgasheva, 2012-08-15 Amazonia and Siberia classic regions of shamanism have long challenged western understandings of man's place in the world. By exploring the social relations between humans and non-human entities credited with human-like personhood not only animals and plants but also things such as artifacts, trade items or mineral resources from a comparative perspective this volume offers valuable insights into the constitutions of humanity and personhood characteristic of the two areas. The contributors conducted their ethnographic fieldwork among peoples undergoing transformative processes of their lived environments such as the depletion of natural resources and migration to urban centers. They describe here fundamental relational modes that are being tested in the face of change presenting groundbreaking research on personhood and agency in shamanic societies and contributing to our global understanding of social and cultural change and continuity.

Clay Masks Explained Samuel Livingston, AI, 2025-02-28 Clay Masks Explained dives into the science behind clay masks focusing on their impact on skin health and purification. It clarifies that while these masks can offer benefits like sebum control and removing surface impurities the idea of deep skin detoxification is often a marketing exaggeration. The book highlights the absorption and adsorption properties of different clays explaining how they interact with the skin at a biological level. The book explores the mineral content of various clay types and their potential effects on skin distinguishing between benefits and risks. It emphasizes a science-backed approach relying on studies in dermatology and cosmetic chemistry to assess the efficacy of clay masks for various skin conditions. The book examines the impact of clay masks on the skin microbiome and recommends the optimal frequency of use. The book starts with the basics of clay minerals their origins and compositions. It then progresses to discuss properties like absorption, adsorption and ion exchange explaining how these affect sebum control and skin purification. It also addresses the impact of clay masks on the skin microbiome incorporating knowledge from geology, chemistry and biology to provide a complete understanding of clay masks.

A Death in the Rainforest Don

Kulick, 2019-06-18 Perhaps the finest and most profound account of ethnographic fieldwork and discovery that has ever entered the anthropological literature. The Wall Street Journal. If you want to experience a profoundly different culture without the exhausting travel to say nothing of the cost this is an excellent choice. The Washington Post. As a young anthropologist Don Kulick went to the tiny village of Gapun in New Guinea to document the death of the native language Tayap. He arrived knowing that you can't study a language without understanding the daily lives of the people who speak it how they talk to their children how they argue how they gossip how they joke. Over the course of thirty years he returned again and again to document Tayap before it disappeared entirely and he found himself inexorably drawn into their world and implicated in their destiny. Kulick wanted to tell the story of Gapuners one that went beyond the particulars and uses of their language that took full stock of their vanishing culture. This book takes us inside the village as he came to know it.

Translating Indigenous Knowledges Ma Carmen África Vidal Claramonte,2024-12-30

In this book Vidal presents a new way of translating indigenous epistemologies For centuries the Western world has ordained what knowledge is and what it should be and has also been responsible for transmitting that knowledge This universal knowledge has traveled to the four corners of the globe In recent decades there has been a steadily growing interest in dialogical epistemologies Disciplines ranging from historiography and philosophy to anthropology are calling for this universalist idea of knowledge to be modified Thanks to this change of perspective other forms of knowledge which until now have been ignored are gradually coming to light Indigenous knowledges are not constructed with the scientific binary static Cartesian or univocal logic characteristic of Western societies Non Western types of knowledge incorporate senses emotions body objects and matter It is impossible to reduce indigenous knowledges to Western conceptualizations The types of translation covered in this book assume that knowledge is not transmitted only in the Western way and that there are world views that take into account the emotions and body as well as the intellect This includes all types of beings human non human and extrahuman In the face of this plurality of epistemologies this book affirms that the static Western conceptual traditions characterized by a binary logic are not useful and that there is a need to translate outside the scope of these traditions The examples given in this book show that translation is not only a process involving Western and non Western languages Translation is not a mere substitution of one word for another because knowledge is not only transmitted through words It also involves non verbal elements Knowledge is transmitted through objects songs sensations and emotions as well as through words Moreover many non Western traditions do not translate with language systems but rather with other semiotic systems such as knots threads colors and bodies in movement This is a timely topical and transdisciplinary reading of interest to advanced students and researchers in translation studies anthropology and beyond School Library Journal, 2000
