

PROTEIN SYNTHESIS

TRANSLATION

1. Translation is the process of synthesizing a protein from an mRNA template. The mRNA template is read in groups of three bases called codons. Each codon codes for a specific amino acid.

2. During translation, the ribosome moves along the mRNA template, reading the codons and adding the corresponding amino acids to the growing polypeptide chain.

3. The process continues until the ribosome reaches a stop codon, at which point the completed polypeptide chain is released.

THE GENETIC CODE

"One codon at a time"

1. Biological systems use sequences of three nucleotides to specify the amino acids that are used to build proteins. These sequences are called codons.

2. Each codon codes for a specific amino acid, and the sequence of codons in an mRNA molecule determines the sequence of amino acids in a protein.

3. The genetic code is universal, meaning that the same codons code for the same amino acids in all organisms.

4. The genetic code is also redundant, meaning that more than one codon can code for the same amino acid.

"One gene - one protein"

1. Each gene contains the instructions for making a specific protein. The sequence of nucleotides in a gene determines the sequence of amino acids in the protein.

2. The sequence of amino acids in a protein determines its shape and function.

3. A change in the sequence of nucleotides in a gene can lead to a change in the sequence of amino acids in the protein, which can affect the protein's function.
