Authentic Problem Solving and Learning in the 21st Century Young Hoan Cho, Imelda S. Caleon, Manu Kapur, 2015-08-12
With the rapid changes in the social political economic and technological landscape around the world today's learners face a more globally competitive job market after leaving school. The 21st century which is characterized by the emergence of knowledge based societies expects learners to be comfortable in dealing with ambiguities and complexities in the real world and to be able to use knowledge as a tool at their workplace. This book will help readers develop an in depth understanding of authentic problem solving and learning and how it can be used to make a difference in their school or learning communities for the development of 21st century competencies. Comprising 20 chapters written by Singapore based and international authors the book is organized into three themes: authentic problems, authentic practices and authentic participation. It details innovative school practices e.g. productive failure concerning the design of problems, learning activities, learning environments and ICT tools for authentic problem solving and learning. Along with theoretical explanations of authentic learning processes and outcomes the book also elucidates how students learn by generating and exploring solutions to complex problems and which cognitive functions are needed at different stages of problem based learning. Presenting coherent descriptions of instructional design principles, successful cases and challenges encountered in K-12 schools and learning communities the book provides useful information, new insights and practical guidance for school directors, parents, teachers and researchers seeking to develop authentic learning environments for 21st century learners. IJER Vol 25-N3

Critical Theory, Methods, and Design in Educational Research Lois Weis, Michelle Fine, Two of the foremost educational researchers chronicle their 30-year collaboration across tumultuous shifts in educational studies bearing witness to cumulative inequities in schools and urban communities. Weis and Fine examine critical research designs with young people from elite, working class, and impoverished class fractions as well as across racial and ethnic groups including those experiencing structural dispossession and those enjoying privilege. Curated to be useful to today's students and future generations of scholars, the volume chronicles the sustained impacts of unjust state systems and dives into vibrant fissures in which the imagination flourishes and possibilities grow. Chapters explore rich linkages of theory and methods, knotty questions of collaboration, partnership, and ethics, and designs that trace social relations over time and space. A newly developed introduction and conclusion bookend six previously published chapters many coauthored with a range of colleagues animating research studies with a broad range of young people and young adults navigating the uneven landscapes of education in urban America.

Book Features: Details linked to research methodologies including multi-site longitudinal ethnography and longitudinal ethnographic interviews as well as participatory action research that the authors among others have advanced in critical educational studies. Provides examples of educational research that interrogate inequities and document radical possibilities by race, class, gender, immigration status, and sexuality. Examines projects that have been designed alongside and by vibrant research teams from across schools, prisons, youth movements, and public and private educational P-16 plus settings. Interrogates how the authors evolved innovative research methods and ethics attentive to studying up, mapping, national youth-led surveys, participatory inquiry behind bars, and with middle school students. Offers educational designs that address inequities in STEM education and outcomes and the impact of state violence on young people as well as methods for understanding structural arrangements, youth identities, and on the ground research for justice.
