

*New stories and photos from Jill and Derick, and Jessa and Ben,
as they openly share how they met, their courtships, engagements, marriages, and much more!*

America has watched the Duggar family experience highs and lows in the past decade of growing up on television. In Growing Up Duggar, the four eldest Duggar girls—Jana, Jill, Jessa, and Jinger—candidly share stories about life in a large family, the qualities they have looked for in a husband, their passion for making a difference in the world, navigating the difficult years from being a little girl to becoming a young lady, their dreams for the future, and more.

This updated version of the New York Times bestseller includes never-before-told stories, new photos, and straightforward advice from Jessa and Jill, who both are now married and have children. The girls expand more on courtship and dating with chaperones and describe falling in love for the first time. Jessa's and Jill's husbands—Ben Seewald and Derick Dillard, respectively—tell us their first impressions of the girls and share their experiences of falling in love with them. At the heart of their story, you'll see the power of faith, how it has sustained them throughout their lives, and how life's challenges have made their faith in God even stronger.

Jana, Jill, Jessa, and Jinger share their experiences to offer hope for the journey through the difficult teenage years, and they provide a solid foundation for entering the next phase of their lives with weddings, husbands, and becoming mothers themselves.

In Guns We Trust William J. Kole, 2015-10-14 In this unsettling investigation into white evangelicals' fusion of the gospel and guns veteran journalist William J Kole exposes how some Christians are standing in the way of reasonable restrictions on firearms and how it makes us all less safe On the evening that the bass player on his worship team casually showed him his handgun the author's world shifted In that moment Kole who was the AP's New England bureau chief when a gunman massacred twenty six people at Sandy Hook Elementary knew he had to figure out what was going on Why were white evangelicals more likely than other Americans to own a weapon What made them treat the Second Amendment as if it were God breathed And how did his own faith rooted in Jesus's call to turn the other cheek get hijacked In the pages of In Guns We Trust Kole looks at the unholy alliance between white evangelicals guns and politics Writing in the tradition of Tim Alberta and Kristin Kobes du Mez he takes us into sanctuaries where worshippers raise hands and pack heat to a rural church that does outreach through target practice with assault rifles and into the lucrative gun making industry in which evangelicals play an outsized role He introduces us to global Christians who can't imagine owning firearms and dissidents in the US who are working for change including activists beating guns into garden tools and nuns who bought company stock so they could sue a gun manufacturer Our nation is awash in more guns than citizens With meticulous research humanizing interviews and immersive narrative Kole pulls back the curtain on the locked and loaded Christianity that got us here Ignoring gun toting believers Kole argues means the violence will continue But when intentional conversation and faithful resistance bear fruit peace may yet prevail

Sarah Stankorb,2023-08-08 In this national bestseller journalist Sarah Stankorb outlines how access to the internet its networks freedom of expression and resources for deeply researching and reporting on powerful church figures allowed women to begin dismantling the false authority of evangelical communities that had long demanded their submission A generation of American Christian girls was taught submitting to men is God s will They were taught not to question the men in their families or their pastors They were told to remain sexually pure and trained to feel shame if a man was tempted Some of these girls were abused and assaulted Some made to shrink down so small they became a shadow of themselves To question their leaders was to question God All the while their male leaders built fiefdoms from megachurches and sprawling ministries They influenced politics and policy To protect their church s influence these men covered up and hid abuse American Christian patriarchy as it rose in political power and cultural sway over the past four decades hurt many faithful believers Millions of Americans abandoned churches they once loved Yet among those who stayed and a few who still loved the church they fled a brave group of women spoke up They built online megaphones using the democratizing power of technology to create long overdue change In Disobedient Women journalist Sarah Stankorb gives long overdue recognition for these everyday women as leaders and as voices for a different sort of faith Their work has driven journalists to help bring abuse stories to national attention Stankorb weaves together the efforts of these courageous voices in order to present a full layered portrait of the treatment of women and the fight for change within the modern American church Disobedient Women is not just a look at the women who have used the internet to bring down the religious power structures that were meant to keep them quiet but also a picture of the large scale changes that are happening within evangelical culture regarding women s roles ultimately underscoring the ways technology has created a place for women to challenge traditional institutions from within The Effects of Certain Organic Compounds on Plant Growth C.
