results of a collaborative research project through which our team completed a multisite ethnographic fieldwork in seven Quebec civil society organizations We observed analyzed and compared a diversity of innovative citizenship education practices aimed at young people in these third places of citizenship education i.e. spaces of socialization different from school and family Theoretically the book offers an in depth analysis of children's and teenagers citizenship as well as of educational discourses on democratic citizenship Focusing on the presentation of case studies the book reveals the diversity of formative experiences offered to young Quebecers The pooling of case analyses leads to a fruitful reflection on education for democratic citizenship through a plurality of citizen experimentation practices rooted in the defense of children's rights feminist social action the community movement alterglobalism and municipal and school public action With its original conceptual vocabulary and qualitative methodological approach this book will help to push back the geolinguistic and disciplinary boundaries that often separate research currents closely or remotely related to the social and political engagement and participation of young people Written in an accessible style it is aimed at a wide audience including youth organization staff graduate students the youth policy sector and anyone interested in the issues surrounding youth citizenship in the 21st century Lifestyle Politics in Translation M. Cristina Caimotto,Rachele Raus,2022-08-10 This book investigates the role of translation processes in the shaping and re shaping of ideological discourse and their impact on the actors involved in the translation process focusing on institutional texts and their influence on lifestyle issues both public and personal The volume employs a unique approach in its focus on lifestyle politics examining texts produced by political actors such as international organizations and national governments and their translations The book draws on an interdisciplinary perspective integrating work from translation studies and linguistics with political science and economics and applies it to English and French versions of the same documents calling attention to ideological differences across versions In light of our increasingly globalized world Caimotto and Raus demonstrate the ways in which globalized discourse undergoes processes of depoliticization and marketization which produce a trickle down effect on individuals personal identities This book will be of interest to students and scholars in translation studies critical discourse analysis and political science
