M14/3/HISTX/HP3/ENG/TZ0/EM/M

Imperial Russia, revolutions, emergence of Soviet State 1853-1924

10. "The First World War was the main cause of the 1917 February/March Revolution in Russia." To what extent do you agree with this statement?

The question invites candidates to examine a range of causes and then to make a judgment on which was the most significant. Many will no doubt accept that the war was the main cause of the February Revolution. Other causes could include: longer term discontent with limitations of political change after 1905 (Duma power was limited and by 1914 political parties were legal but political power still rested with the autocracy); the impact of industrialization and urbanization (leading to overcrowded conditions for workers in the cities) causing discontent, for example, the strikes of Lena goldfields and over 1.5 million industrial workers in the last few months of peace. Peasant revolts were also prevalent. Thus on the eve of war, Russia was unstable with much discontent. There was potential for revolution without the added stresses of war. On the role of the war itself, initial enthusiasm was rapidly destroyed by the failure of the Tsar's regime to fight effectively. Evidence could include: defeats at Tannenberg and the Masurian Lakes; high casualties; the failure to logistically support the army; shortages of weapons at the front; failure to provide food and medical supplies to the troops. In the cities, high inflation and food shortages, coupled with the role of Rasputin and the Tsarina, led to increasing criticism of the Tsarist regime. Nicholas II's assumption of military command and his refusal to share power with the Duma meant all discontent was focused on the monarchy. Candidates may well argue that the regime was inherently weak and that revolution would have happened because of this at some point, and that the stresses of war merely acted as a catalyst for revolution.

European diplomacy and the First World War 1870-1923

11. Analyse the main objectives of German foreign policy between 1890 and 1914.

This is not a question on the causes of the First World War; rather, it gives an opportunity for candidates to show their knowledge of German foreign policy between 1890 and 1914 and asks for an analysis of the main objectives. Some may focus on German naval and colonial policy (the claim for 'A Place in the Sun' was stated by Bülow in 1897), while others may focus more on German support of Austria-Hungary in the Balkans and the desire for a Mitteleuropa. Others may highlight the unpredictability of German policy and comment on the character of Kaiser Wilhelm II (Daily Telegraph affair). Other approaches could emphasize how objectives shifted over time within this period, or how foreign policy was driven by domestic concerns – specifically by what was seen as the threat of the rise of the SPD. Fear of a two front war and the resultant military planning (Schlieffen Plan) could also be discussed as well as the view that Russia would only become industrially and militarily stronger over time (War Council meeting of December 1912 and Moltke's view that war was inevitable and "the sooner the better").

12. Compare and contrast the contribution of the British and German home fronts in determining the outcome of the First World War.

The First World War was the first "total" war in history. For comparison between Britain and Germany, candidates could focus on conscription, propaganda and the degree of suspension of domestic political conflict, among others. Britain and Germany could both be examined for reorganization of the economy, rationing and the extent to which women were incorporated into the workforce. For contrasts, candidates might choose to focus on specific episodes during the war. For example, in Britain, the Shell crisis of 1915 and the emergence of the Ministry of Munitions, which supported the British military effort. For Germany, candidates could assess the Burgfrieden, conditions from 1916 onwards, including the "Turnip Winter", the growth of the black market and the way in which labour unrest (strikes and the Kiel Mutiny) contributed to political instability and an eventual willingness to seek an armistice, implicitly conceding defeat.

Empire, Incorporated Philip J. Stern,2023-05-16 Brilliant ambitious and often surprising A remarkable contribution to the current global debate about Empire and a small masterpiece of research and conceptual reimagining William Dalrymple author of The Anarchy The East India Company Corporate Violence and the Pillage of an Empire An award winning historian places the corporation more than the Crown at the heart of British colonialism arguing that companies built and governed global empire raising questions about public and private power that were just as troubling four hundred years ago as they are today Across four centuries from Ireland to India the Americas to Africa and Australia British colonialism was above all the business of corporations Corporations conceived promoted financed and governed overseas expansion making claims over territory and peoples while ensuring that British and colonial society were invested quite literally in their ventures Colonial companies were also relentlessly controversial frequently in debt and prone to failure The corporation was well suited to overseas expansion not because it was an inevitable juggernaut but because like empire itself it was an elusive contradiction public and private person and society subordinate and autonomous centralized and diffuse immortal and precarious national and cosmopolitan a legal fiction with very real power Breaking from traditional histories in which corporations take a supporting role by doing the dirty work of sovereign states in exchange for commercial monopolies Philip Stern argues that corporations took the lead in global expansion and administration Whether in sixteenth century Ireland and North America or the Falklands in the early 1980s corporations were key players And as Empire Incorporated makes clear venture colonialism did not cease with the end of empire Its legacies continue to raise questions about corporate power that are just as relevant today as they were 400 years ago Challenging conventional wisdom about where power is held on a global scale Stern complicates the supposedly firm distinction between private enterprise and the state offering a new history of the British Empire as well as a new history of the corporation Crossing Borders: Boundaries and Margins in Medieval and Early Modern Britain ,2018-04-03 A set of essays intended to recognize the scholarship of Professor Cynthia Neville the papers gathered here explore borders and boundaries in medieval and early modern Britain Over her career Cynthia has excavated the history of border law and social life on the frontier between England and Scotland and has written extensively of the relationships between natives and newcomers in Scotland s Middle Ages Her work repeatedly invokes jurisdiction as both a legal and territorial expression of power The essays in this volume return to themes and topics touched upon in her corpus of work all in one way or another examining borders and boundaries as either or both spatial and legal constructs that grow from and shape social interaction Contributors are Douglas Biggs Amy Blakeway Steve Boardman Sara M Butler Anne DeWindt Kenneth F Duggan Elizabeth Ewan Chelsea D M Hartlen K J Kesselring Tom Lambert Shannon McSheffrey and Cathryn R Spence Separatism and the State Damien Kingsbury,2021-02-27 This book proposes and tests a theory of separatism to determine if there are key commonalities as to why separatist movements rise and what fuels them In the post Cold War period separatism has been on the rise Today there are more than 100 active separatist movements with around 70 of them engaging in violence This book focuses on examples from Europe the Middle East Africa and Asia to highlight the commonalities found across the case studies It examines the idea of separatism to better understand what drives movements to break away from preexisting states demonstrates the factors which produce both violent separatism and the rise of armed non state actors and shows the options for the resolution of such conflict based on considering claims for separatism from the perspectives of separatist movements This book will be applicable for undergraduate and postgraduate students of International Relations and International Politics as well as Conflict Peace Studies Anthropology and Post Colonial Studies Introducing the IB Diploma Programme Marc Abrioux,Jill Rutherford,2013-02-14 Schools wishing to introduce the IB

Bahrain's Uprising Ala'a Shehabi,Marc Owen Jones,2015-09-15 Amid the extensive coverage of the Arab uprisings the Gulf state of Bahrain has been almost forgotten Fusing historical and contemporary analysis Bahrain s Uprising seeks to fill this gap examining the ongoing protests and state repression that continues today Drawing on powerful testimonies interviews and conversations from those involved this broad collection of writings by scholars and activists provides a rarely heard voice of the lived experience of Bahrainis describing the way in which a sophisticated society defined by a historical struggle continues to hamper the efforts of the ruling elite to rebrand itself as a liberal monarchy

Iraqi Kurdistan, the PKK and International Relations Hannes Černý,2017-07-28 Due to its primacy in explaining issues of war and peace in the international arena the discipline of International Relations IR looms large in analyses of and responses to ethnic conflict in academia politics and popular media in particular with respect to contemporary conflicts in the Middle East Grounded in constitutive theory this book challenges how ethnic ethno nationalist conflict is represented in explanatory IR by deconstructing its most prominent state centric models frameworks and analytical concepts As much a critique of contemporary scholarship on Kurdish ethno nationalism as a detailed analysis of the most prominent Kurdish ethno nationalist actors the book provides the first in depth investigation into the relations between the PKK and the main Iraqi Kurdish political parties from the 1980s to the present It situates this inquiry within the wider context of the ambiguous political status of the Kurdistan Region of Iraq its relations with Turkey and the role Kurdish parties and insurgencies play in the war against ISIS in Iraq and Syria Appreciating these complex dynamics and how they are portrayed in Western scholarship is essential for understanding current developments in the Iraqi and Syrian theatres of war and for making sense of discussions about a potential independent Kurdish state to emerge in Iraq Iraqi Kurdistan provides a comprehensive and critical discussion of the state centric and essentialising epistemologies ontologies and methodologies of the three main paradigms of explanatory IR as well as their analytical models and frameworks on ethnic identity and conflict in the Middle East and beyond It will therefore be a valuable resource for anyone studying ethnicity and nationalism International Relations or Middle East Politics

Advanced Nanocarbon Materials Sarika Verma,Raju Khan,Avanish Kumar Srivastava,2022-05-04 This book provides a well focused and comprehensive overview of the history and background of nanocarbon based materials like carbon nanotubes graphene and fullerenes It discusses their structure synthesis properties and modifications for making various advanced materials The authors focus on their use in the health care sector as therapeutic agents in pharmacy and medicine in diagnosis and analysis in pharmacy and medicine as biosensors gene and drug delivery cancer therapy biosensing and bioimaging go based antibacterial materials and as a promising antioxidant and GO based scaffold for cell culture The authors also showcase the application potential of advanced nanocarbon based materials by examining the biomedical applications developed via novel advanced designing in which the technologies will be adopted and the end users can be benefited Finally the authors discuss the increasing research on carbon based materials along with the challenges they are currently facing along with possible solutions that may result in the availability of the accessible reliable and cost efficient technology The potential user for this book may be medical practitioners biologists pharmacists and chemists This book covers in depth knowledge of processing parameters for making nanocarbon based material for high end applications in the biomedical and pharmaceutical fields

Unsettling Settlements - Cities, Migrants, Climate Change Kira Vinke, 2020-02-18 Droughts sea level rise crop failures against the background of dramatic challenges in a changing climate Kira Vinke examines the effectiveness of migration as one probable form of adaptation Her research concludes that only preventative migration can be labeled as adaptation to the threatening changes and that frequently migration falls short of maintaining or improving people's standard of living after relocation Often it merely ensures survival Vinke's illuminating study which led her to Bangladesh and the Central Pacific appeals to policy makers to responsibly manage preventative outmigration if there is no option to protect exposed regions as human habitats

Law and Regulation of Mobile Payment Systems Joy Malala, 2017-11-28 Over the last ten years mobile payment systems have revolutionised banking in some countries in Africa In Kenya the introduction of M Pesa a new financial services model has transformed the banking and financial services industry Giving the unbanked majority access to the financial services market it has attracted over 18 million subscribers which is remarkable given that fewer than 4 million people in Kenya have bank accounts This book addresses the legal and regulatory issues arising out of the introduction of M Pesa in Kenya and its drive towards financial inclusion It considers the interaction between regulation and technological innovation with a particular focus on the regulatory tools institutional arrangements and government decisional processes through the examination as a whole of its regulatory capacity This is done with a view to understanding the regulatory capacity of Kenya in addressing the vulnerabilities presented by technological innovation in the financial industry for consumers after financial inclusion It also examines the way that mobile payments have been regulated by criticising the piecemeal approach that the Central Bank of Kenya has taken in addressing the legal and regulatory issues presented by mobile payments The book argues there are significant gaps in the regulatory regime of mobile banking in Kenya

Genomics in Aquaculture to Better Understand Species Biology and Accelerate Genetic Progress José Manuel Yáñez, Ross Houston, Scott Newman, 2016-09-15 From a global perspective aquaculture is an activity related to food production with large potential for growth Considering a continuously growing population the efficiency and sustainability of this activity will be crucial to meet the needs of protein for human consumption in the near future However for continuous enhancement of the culture of both fish and shellfish there are still challenges to overcome mostly related to the biology of the cultured species and their interaction with increasingly changing environmental factors Examples of these challenges include early sexual maturation feed meal replacement immune response to infectious diseases and parasites and temperature and salinity tolerance Moreover it is estimated that less than 10% of the total aquaculture production in the world is based on populations genetically improved by means of artificial selection Thus there is considerable room for implementing breeding schemes aimed at improving productive traits having significant economic impact By far the most economically relevant trait is growth rate which can be efficiently improved by conventional genetic selection i e based on breeding values of selection candidates However there are other important traits that cannot be measured directly on selection candidates such as resistance against infectious and parasitic agents and carcass quality traits e g fillet yield and meat color However these traits can be more efficiently improved using molecular tools to assist breeding programs by means of marker assisted selection using a few markers explaining a high proportion of the trait variation or genomic selection using thousands of markers to estimate genomic breeding values The development and implementation of new technologies applied to molecular biology and genomics such as next generation sequencing methods and high throughput genotyping platforms are allowing the rapid increase of availability of genomic resources in aquaculture species These resources will provide powerful tools to the research community and will aid in the determination of the genetic factors involved in several biological aspects of aquaculture species In this regard it is important to establish discussion in terms of which strategies will be more efficient to solve the primary challenges that are affecting aquaculture systems around the world The main objective of this Research Topic is to provide a forum to communicate recent research and implementation strategies in the use of genomics in aquaculture species with emphasis on 1 a better understanding of fish and shellfish biological processes having considerable impact on aquaculture systems and 2 the efficient incorporation of molecular information into breeding programs to accelerate genetic progress of economically relevant traits

Navigating Contemporary Iran Eric Hooglund, Leif Stenberg, 2013-02-28 This detailed examination of contemporary Iran addresses the most important current social political and economic issues facing the nation and the way it is perceived by the outside world The volume brings together some of the most important scholars and researchers in the field working in such diverse disciplines as anthropology economics history international relations philosophy political science and sociology to offer a broad range of perspectives on the significance of three decades of changes for Iran s current and near term future domestic and international politics Drawing upon a wealth of original field research the authors challenge conventional wisdom and simplistic media stereotypes about the Islamic Republic The chapters reach beyond traditional images of the country to show that as a consequence of thirty years of economic and social changes the reality or essence of contemporary Iran is more complex and nuanced than is often portrayed in the international media Offering valuable insights into Iran s economic and social policies as well as its politics since the Islamic Revolution this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of political science sociology and Iranian studies Masters of the Steppe: The Impact of the Scythians and Later Nomad Societies of Eurasia Svetlana Pankova, St John Simpson, 2021-01-21 This book presents 45 papers presented at a major international conference held at the British Museum during the 2017 BP exhibition Scythians warriors of ancient Siberia Papers include new archaeological discoveries results of scientific research and studies of museum collections most presented in English for the first time
