policy priorities metrics and organizational practices as these are underpinned by unequal power relations that inform who does what research and with whom In turn injustice occurs when knowledge is evaluated primarily on the basis of its usefulness The chapters in this book illustrate the epistemic implications of changing institutional and organizational conditions produced by narrow conceptions of knowledge and good science and relations between them It explores these arrangements at the level of colonial and geopolitical relations and their effects in terms of institutional processes practices and agency The text shows how a lack of epistemic diversity reinforces structural and cultural racial and gender injustices arising from colonialism patriarchy and dominant views of science This volume will appeal to policy makers and researchers in higher education reform and scholars interested in changing academic practices from feminist and postcolonial perspectives It was originally published as a special issue of Critical Studies in Education
