Lee Swanson,Karen R. Harris,Steve Graham,2014-08-13 This comprehensive handbook reviews the major theoretical methodological and instructional advances that have occurred in the field of learning disabilities With contributions from leading researchers the volume synthesizes a vast body of knowledge on the nature of learning disabilities their relationship to basic psychological and brain processes and how students with these difficulties can best be identified and treated Findings are reviewed on ways to support student performance in specific skill areas m including language arts math science and social studies m as well as general principles of effective instruction that cut across academic domains Authoritative and up to date the book also examines the concepts and methods that guide learning disability research and identifies promising directions for future investigation Use of Services for Family Planning and Infertility, United States, 1982 Gerry E. Hendershot,Marjorie C. Horn,William D. Mosher,1988 The 1982 statistics on the use of family planning and infertility services presented in this report are preliminary results from Cycle III of the National Survey of Family Growth NSFG conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics Data were collected through personal interviews with a multistage area probability sample of 7969 women aged 15 44 A detailed series of questions was asked to obtain relatively complete estimates of the extent and type of family planning services received Statistics on family planning services are limited to women who were able to conceive 3 years before the interview date Overall 79% of currently married nonsterile women reported using some type of family planning service during the previous 3 years There were no statistically significant differences between white 79% black 75% or Hispanic 77% wives or between the 2 income groups The 1982 survey questions were more comprehensive than those of earlier cycles of the survey The annual rate of visits for family planning services in 1982 was 1077 visits 1000 women Teenagers had the highest annual visit rate 1581 1000 of any age group for all sources of family planning services combined Visit rates declined sharply with age from 1447 at ages 15 24 to 479 at ages 35 44 Similar declines with age also were found in the visit rates for white and black women separately Nevertheless the annual visit rate for black women 1334 1000 was significantly higher than that for white women 1033 The highest overall visit rate was for black women 15 19 years of age 1867 1000 Nearly 2 3 of all family planning visits were to private medical sources Teenagers of all races had higher family planning service visit rates to clinics than to private medical sources as did black women age 15-24. White women age 20 and older had higher visit rates to private medical services than to clinics. Never married women had higher visit rates to clinics than currently or formerly married women. Data were also collected in 1982 on use of medical services for infertility by women who had difficulty in conceiving or carrying a pregnancy to term. About 1 million ever married women had 1 or more infertility visits in the 12 months before the interview. During the 3 years before interview about 1.9 million women had infertility visits. For all ever married women as well as for white and black women separately, infertility services were more likely to be secured from private medical sources than from clinics. The survey design, reliability of the estimates, and the terms used are explained in the technical notes. Army Chemical Review, 2007. Geography of Lands Overseas. Wallace Robert McConnell, 1948. Basic Elements of Survey Research in Education. Ulemu Luhanga, Allen G. Harbaugh, 2021-09-01. In this first book of the series Survey Methods in Educational Research we have brought together leading authors and scholars in the field to discuss key introductory concepts in the creation, implementation, evaluation, and dissemination of survey instruments and their resultant findings. While there are other textbooks that might introduce these concepts adequately well, the authors here have focused on the pragmatic issues that inevitably arise in the development and administration process of survey instruments. Drawing from their rich experiences, the authors present these potential speed bumps or road blocks a survey researcher in education or the social sciences might encounter. Referencing their own work and practice, the authors provide valuable suggestions for dealing with these issues your advisor never told you about. And all of the recommendations are aligned with standard protocols and current research on best practices in the field of research methodology. This book is broken into four broad units: on creating survey items and instruments; administering surveys; analyzing the data from surveys; and stories of successful administrations modeling the entire research cycle. Each chapter focuses on a different concept in the survey research process, and the authors share their approaches to addressing the issues. These topics include survey item construction, scale development, cognitive interviewing, measuring change with self-report data, translation issues with surveys administered in multiple languages, working with school and program administrators when implementing surveys, a review of current software used in survey research, the use of weights, response styles, assessing validity of results, and effectively communicating your results and findings, and much more. The intended audience of the volume will be practitioners, administrators, teachers, as researchers, graduate students, social science and education researchers not experienced in survey research, and students learning program evaluation. In brief, if you are considering doing survey research, this book is meant for you. Human-Computer Interaction - INTERACT 2005. Maria Francesca Costabile, Fabio Paternò, 2005-09-28. We will be sooner or later not only handling personal computers but also multipurpose cellular phones, complex personal digital assistants, devices that will be context aware and even wearable computers stitched to our clothes; we would like these personal systems to become transparent to the tasks they will be performing.
