With the engine off, raise and lower the restraint bar (Item 1) [Figure 10-170-1]. Make sure the restraint bar moves freely and that there are no damaged or loose parts.

The restraint bar has an over-center spring that is used to keep the bar in either the up or down position. Check the spring and guides for damage and make sure the restraint bar remains in the full up position when it is raised.

Sit in the seat and fasten the seat belt. Engage the parking brake and lower the restraint bar. Start the engine and raise the boom. While the boom is raising, raise the restraint bar. The boom must stop when the restraint bar is raised.

Repeat this procedure for boom down, tilt out, tilt back, boom extend, boom retract and auxiliary hydraulics. Each time the respective functions must deactivate.
