Material Aspects of Reading in Ancient and Medieval Cultures Anna Krauß, Jonas Leipziger, Friederike Schücking-Jungblut, 2020-05-05 This publication seeks to endeavour the relationship between material artefacts and reading practices in ancient and medieval cultures While the acts of reception of written artefacts in former times are irretrievably lost some of the involved artefacts are preserved and might comprise hints to the ancient reading practices In form of case studies the contributions to this volume examine various forms of written artefacts as to their implications on modes of reading Analyzing different Qumran scrolls codices Tefillin Mezuzot magical texts tablets bricks and statues as well as meta textual and iconographic aspects the articles inquire the possibilities of how to correlate material aspects to assumed modes of reception and practices of reading The contributions stem from Egyptology Papyrology Qumran Studies Biblical Studies Jewish Studies Ancient Christianity and Islamic Studies In total this volume contributes to the research on practices of reception in times past and demonstrates the potential hidden in text bearing artefacts The Question of Artificial Intelligence Brian P. Bloomfield, 2018-05-15 Originally published in 1987 when Artificial Intelligence AI was one of the most hotly debated subjects of the moment there was widespread feeling that it was a field whose time had come that intelligent machines lay just around the corner Moreover with the onset of the revolution in information technology and the proclamation from all corners that we were moving into an information society developments in AI and advanced computing were seen in many countries as having both strategic and economic importance Yet aside from the glare of publicity that tends to surround new scientific ideas or technologies it must be remembered that AI was a relative newcomer among the sciences that it had often been the subject of bitter controversy and that though it had been promising to create intelligent machines for some 40 years prior to publication many believe that it had actually displayed very little substantive progress With this background in mind the aim of this collection of essays was to take a novel look at AI Rather than following the path of old well trodden arguments about definitions of intelligence or the status of computer chess programs the objective was to bring new perspectives to the subject in order to present it in a different light Indeed instead of simply adding to the endless wrangling for and against AI the source of such divisions is made a topic for analysis in its own right Drawing on ideas from the philosophy and sociology of scientific knowledge this collection therefore broke new ground Moreover although a great deal had been written about the social and cultural impact of AI little had been said of the culture of AI scientists themselves including their discourse and style of thought as well as the choices judgements negotiations and competitive struggles for resources that had shaped the genesis and development of the paradigmatic structure of their discipline at the time Yet sociologists of science have demonstrated that the analysis of factors such as these is a necessary part of understanding the development of scientific knowledge Hence it was hoped that this collection would help to redress the imbalance and provide a broader and more interesting picture of AI
