

11.41 Push pin into the piston pin bore, which indicates the piston's position

11.42 Using a feeler gauge to measure the piston pin clearance

11.43 Lower the new cylinder head gently into the engine correctly to the same level as the old one. Measure the required gap, and proceed to step 20.

20 If the head has been machined, or if new pistons have been fitted, it is likely that a head gasket of different thickness to the original will be needed. Consult your dealer or the boss of the machined piston protrusion above the cylinder head gasket surface the protrusion that fit into the range specified at the start of this chapter.

21 To measure the piston protrusion, insert a steel bar into the 127 to the top face of the cylinder head gasket mating face of the cylinder block, and use the gauge on the gasket mating face (see illustration).

22 Test the gauge probe above the 1 cylinder piston, and turn the graduated scale to read with the piston resting 150 to the maximum height, then use the maximum gauge protrusion of 150.

23 Repeat the measurement for the remaining pistons, and record the results.

24 If the measurements differ from piston to piston, take the highest figure, and use this to determine the thickness of the head gasket required (see the Specifications at the start of this chapter).

Preparation for refitting

25 The mating faces of the cylinder head and cylinder block must be perfectly clean before refitting the head. Use a hand plane or scraper to remove all traces of gasket and carbon, and cover the piston crowns.

Note: The new head gasket has rubber coated surfaces, which could be damaged from steel scrapers or debris left in a water pump.

26 Use particular care when cleaning the piston crowns, as the soft aluminium alloy is easily damaged.

27 Make sure that the carbon is not allowed to enter the oil and water passages. This is particularly important for the lubrication system, as carbon could block the oil supply to the engine's components, causing excessive wear and scrap, and the water, oil and fuel leaks in the cylinder block.

28 To prevent carbon entering the gas passages the valves and seats, blow a fine stream of air in the gas, after cleaning each piston, use a small brush to remove all traces of gasket and carbon from the gas, then wipe away the remainder with a clean rag. Clean all the pistons in the same way.

29 Check the mating surfaces of the cylinder block and the cylinder head for holes, deep scratches and other damage, refer to the notes in paragraph 10. If signs of this may be removed carefully with a file, but if necessary, machining may be the only alternative to correct.

30 If a passage of the cylinder head gasket surface is damaged, use a straight edge to check it for distortion. Refer to Part 2, of this Chapter 2 repairs.

31 Ensure that the cylinder head bolt holes in the intermediate and rear face of oil passages in both sides of oil in the bolt holes. This is most important to ensure that the correct bolt tightening torque can be applied, and to prevent the possibility of the block being cracked by hydraulic pressure when the bolts are tightened.

Refitting

32 Wipe away the timing oil with a 1000 grit sand paper. Do this with extreme care, as oil can penetrate carbon on the cylinder head to soften it.

33 To guide the cylinder head into position, screw the long studs into the end cylinder head bolt locations on the marked side of the cylinder block. As an alternative to the studs, use old cylinder head bolts with their heads cut off, and use oil in the ends to enable the bolts to be unscrewed.

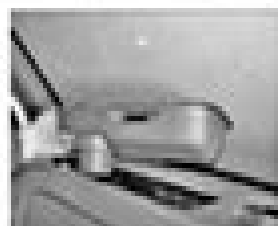

34 Ensure that the cylinder head mounting flanges are in place in the cylinder block, then fit the new cylinder head gasket over the flanges (see illustration). The gasket can only be fitted one way, with the bolt to determine the gasket thickness at the front (see illustration 11.45). Then use it to avoid damaging the gasket's rubber coating.

11.44 Remove the wiring

11.45 ... and disconnect the wiring connector from the opposite lighter

11.46 Lift out the timing tray from the top of the block

11.47 Undo the four bolts (arrowed) securing the timing cover (see illustration) to the block

11.48a Release the retaining clip, and ensure the head stays flat and the conditioned edge further from the mounting bracket

11.48b ... then remove the bracket

35 Working through the timing tray, specify only the four bolts securing the flanges and mounting bracket in the face (see illustration).

36 Remove the retaining clip and detach the face stay bar and the advance stay, lower from the mounting bracket, then remove the bracket (see illustration).

37 Disconnect the wiring connector from the power point.

38 Lift off the two covers and remove the face upper retaining bolts (see illustration).

39 Undo the six bolts securing the face lower support bracket to the bottom face (see illustration).

40 Remove the retaining clip and remove the bracket halves from the face on both sides (see illustration).

41 Using a small screwdriver, release the four screws from the face on both sides (see illustration).

11.49a Lift off the face covers

42 Undo the four outer mounting bolts from the face on both sides (see illustration).

11.49b ... and remove the face upper retaining bolts

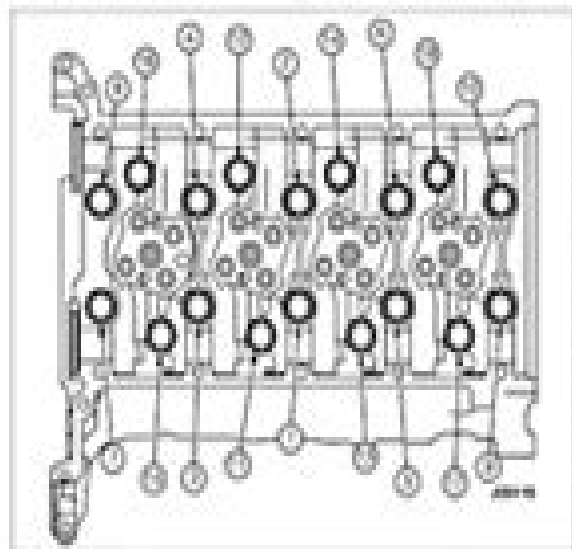

11.50 Undo the six bolts (arrowed) securing the face lower support bracket to the bottom

11.51 Remove the retaining clip and remove the bracket halves from the face on both sides

11.52 Using a small screwdriver, release the bolt covers from the face on both sides

11.41 Tightening sequence for the cylinder head bolts
