Mervyn Nicholson, J. G. Morton, 1973 Geomorphology of Desert Environments Anthony J. Parsons, A. D. Abrahams, 2009-03-20 About one third of the Earth's land surface experiences a desert climate and this area supports approximately 15% of the planet's population. This percentage continues to grow and with this growth comes the need to acquire and apply an understanding of desert geomorphology. Such an understanding is vital in managing scarce and fragile resources and in mitigating natural hazards. This authoritative reference book is comprehensive in its coverage of the geomorphology of desert environments and is arranged thematically. It begins with an overview of global deserts, proceeds through treatments of weathering, hillslopes, rivers, piedmonts, lake basins, and aeolian surfaces, and concludes with a discussion of the role of climatic change. Written by a team of international authors, all of whom are active in the field, the chapters cover the spectrum of desert geomorphology. Syllabus in Geography, 1958 Geography syllabus, 1987

The Basics of Geomorphology Kenneth J. Gregory, John Lewin, 2014-10-20 I can think of no better guides than Professors Ken Gregory and John Lewin to lead the reader through the conceptual basis of this exciting science. Victor R. Baker, University of Arizona. A very readable and informative introduction to the discipline for senior undergraduates, postgraduates, and researchers. Angela Gurnell, Queen Mary University of London. Time will tell, but this book may well mark a turning point in the way students and scientists alike perceive Earth surface processes and landforms. Jonathan Phillips, University of Kentucky. This student-focused book provides a detailed description and analysis of the key concepts, ideas, and hypotheses that inform geomorphology. Kenneth Gregory and John Lewin explain the basics of landform science in 20 concepts, each the subject of a substantive cross-referenced entry. They use the idea of the geomorphic system to organise entries in four sections, with extensive web resources provided for each. System Contexts, The Systems Approach, Uniformitarianism, Landform Form, Process and Materials, Equilibrium, Complexity, and Non-Linear Dynamical Systems, System Functioning, Cycles and cascades, Force Resistance, Geomorphic work, Process Form, Models, System Adjustments, Timescales, Forcings, Change, Trajectories, Inheritance, and Sensitivity, Anthropocene, Drivers for the Future, Geomorphic Hazards, Geomorphic Engineering, Design and Prediction. Aligned with the teaching literature, this innovative text provides a fully functioning learning environment for study, revision, and even self-directed research for both undergraduate and postgraduate students of geomorphology. Key Concepts in Geomorphology Paul R. Bierman, David R. Montgomery, 2019-11-22 Developed with extensive community involvement and support from the US National Science Foundation, it is about our planet's dynamic surface, a place where Earth and atmosphere meet and life thrives. Key Concepts in Geomorphology takes an integrative science approach that applies principles of physics, chemistry, biology, and mathematics in the understanding of Earth surface processes and the evolution of topography over short and long timescales to solve problems important to people and societies. The authors also hone in on practical applications, showing how scientists are using geomorphological research to tackle critical societal issues: natural disaster response, safer infrastructure.
