What works in early grade literacy instruction Jennae Bulat,Margaret Dubeck,Paula Green,Karon Harden,Catherine Henny,Mónika Mattos,Alison Pflapsen,Ana Robledo,Yasmin Sitabkhan,2017-02-28 Over the past decade RTI International has pursued the goal of quality inclusive differentiated early grade literacy instruction in nearly 30 early grade reading or early grade literacy programs in low and middle income LMI countries Across our diverse portfolio we have supported Ministries of Education Ministries in diverse contexts in their development and implementation of research based early grade literacy programs and have learned important lessons based on our experience working with Ministries to design develop and implement early grade literacy programs This paper describes the core elements that we have found to improve early grade literacy instruction and learner outcomes the approach to teaching Teach the availability of quality relevant learner materials Text the effective use of instructional time Time the use of formative assessment to guide instruction Test and provision of instruction in the most effective language Tongue This paper focuses on the acquisition of literacy in alphabetic and alphasyllabic languages in the early primary years most typically academic levels 1 through 3 and the kinds of exposures instruction and support learners need to become fully literate These are the elements of a literacy program that can be taught that should be present in teaching and learning materials and in teacher trainings and that relate specifically to what happens in a classroom Many more factors contribute to literacy acquisition However we focus on the core elements in this paper to delve deeper and facilitate a richer discussion about these components No one size fits all approach to the development and implementation of literacy programs exists the local context and constraints of any implementation can require adaptation and adjustments In many cases the fully diversified approach to early grade literacy instruction described in the classroom scenario has not yet been achieved However we hope that this compilation of lessons learned and best practices achieved through our experiences will help to further the efforts of all to provide high quality effective literacy instruction to all learners particularly those in LMI countries

Studies in Science Education in the Asia-Pacific

Region May Cheng, Alister Jones, Cathy Bunting, 2017-09-13 Consistent with international trends there is an active pursuit of more engaging science education in the Asia Pacific region The aim of this book is to bring together some examples of research being undertaken at a range of levels from studies of curriculum and assessment tools to classroom case studies and investigations into models of teacher professional learning and development While neither a comprehensive nor definitive representation of the work that is being carried out in the region the contributions from China Hong Kong Taiwan Korea Japan Singapore Australia and New Zealand give a taste of some of the issues being explored and the hopes that researchers have of positively influencing the types of science education experienced by school students The purpose of this book is therefore to share contextual information related to science education in the Asia Pacific region as well as offering insights for conducting studies in this region and outlining possible questions for further investigation In addition we anticipate that the specific resources and strategies introduced in this book will provide a useful reference for curriculum developers and science educators when they design school science curricula and science both pre service and in service teacher education programmes The first section of the book examines features of science learners and learning and includes studies investigating the processes associated with science conceptual learning scientific inquiry model construction and students attitudes towards science The second section focuses on teachers and teaching It discusses some more innovative teaching approaches adopted in the region including the use of group work inquiry based instruction developing scientific literacy and the use of questions and analogies The third section reports on initiatives related to assessments and curriculum reform including initiatives associated with school based assessment formative assessment strategies and teacher support
