Intersections of Gender, Class, and Race in the Long Nineteenth Century and Beyond Barbara Leonardi, 2018-12-29 This book explores the intersections of gender with class and race in the construction of national and imperial ideologies and their fluid transformation from the Romantic to the Victorian period and beyond exposing how these cultural constructions are deeply entangled with the family metaphor For example by examining the re signification of the angel in the house and the deviant woman in the context of unstable or contingent masculinities and across discourses of class and nation the volume contributes to a more nuanced understanding of British cultural constructions in the long nineteenth century The central idea is to unearth the historical roots of the family metaphor in the construction of national and imperial ideologies and to uncover the interests served by its specific discursive formation The book explores both male and female stereotypes enabling a more perceptive comparison enriched with a nuanced reflection on the construction and social function of class The advanced class-book of modern geography, by W. conservative economists insist that disparities in earnings are a fair reflection of racial differences in education skills and similar measures of productivity Free markets they contend are anathemas to racial discrimination Dr Boston demonstrates that these views lack empirical support and explains how discrimination persists in labor markets While acknowledging that class position is increasingly important he nevertheless illustrates how black class stratification itself uniquely reflects racial subjugation But in the author s own words These findings will not be received comfortably by conservatives because they are just another chapter in the continuing saga of why their revolution has failed so miserably Flawed theory creates failed policies Yet his book is of major importance in understanding the current position of black people in society and the reality that has to be addressed in contemporary public policy More than this he provides a solution to the riddle of race and class which has eluded social investigators for decades Publisher and Bookseller ,1898 Vols for 1871 76 1913 14 include an extra number The Christmas bookseller separately paged and not included in the consecutive numbering of the regular series
