Hurricanes and Carnivals Lee Gutkind, 2007 In Mexico writes Ilan Stavans in the introduction to this provocative new collection on Mexican culture and politics the essay is embraced as passionately as a sport While the American essay may be personal and confessional or erudite and academic it is presumed to be truthful By contrast the Mexican essay pushes the boundaries between fact and fiction as writers seek to make their opinions heard in literary journals in newspapers and even on cereal boxes What is real and what isn't in a Mexican essay only God knows concludes Stavans In Hurricanes and Carnivals Lee Gutkind a pioneer in the teaching of creative nonfiction brings together fifteen essays by Mexican Mexican American and Latin American writers that push the boundaries of style and form showing that navigating truth is anything but clear cut Although creative nonfiction is widely thought to be an American art form this collection proves otherwise By blending fact and fiction story and fantasy history and mythology these writers and others push the bounds of the essay to present a vision of Mexico rarely seen from this side of the border Addressing topics that include immigration politics ecology violence family and sexuality they take literary license on a whirlwind adventure C M Mayo shows us Mexico City as seen through the eyes of her pug Picadou Juan Villoro examines modern Mexico through the lens of demography Homero Aridjis uses the plight of nesting sea turtles to document a slowly changing Mexican attitude toward natural resources and Sam Quinones documents the decline of beauty queen addiction in Mazatlán and tells us about the flower festivals where according to lore only two things matter hurricanes and carnivals For readers interested in a literary view of contemporary Mexico as well as students of the creative nonfiction genre this volume is essential

Mexico's southern state of Quintana Roo is often perceived by archaeologists as a blank spot on the map of the Maya world a region generally assumed to hold little of interest thanks to its relative isolation from the rest of Mexico But salvage archaeology required by recent development along the Maya Riviera along with a suite of other ongoing and recent research projects have shown that the region was critical in connecting coastal and inland zones and it is now viewed as an important area in its own right from Preclassic through post contact times The first volume devoted to the archaeology of Quintana Roo this book reveals a long tradition of exploration and discovery in the region and an increasingly rich recent history of study Covering a time span from the Formative period through the early twentieth century it offers a sampling of recent and ongoing research by Mexican North American and European archaeologists Each of the chapters helps to integrate sites within and beyond the borders of the modern state inviting readers to consider Quintana Roo as part of an interacting Maya world whose boundaries were entirely different from today's In taking in the range of the region the authors consider studies in the northern part of the state resulting from modern development around Cancún the mid state sites of Muxil and Yucokop both of which witnessed continual occupations from the Middle Preclassic through the Postclassic and new data from such southern sites as Cerros Lagartera and Chichmuul The contributions consider such subjects as ceramic controversies settlement shifts site planning strategies epigraphic and iconographic materials the impact of recent coastal development and the interplay between ancient historic and modern use of the region Many of the chapters confirm the region as a cultural corridor between Cobá and the southern lowland centers and address demographic shifts of the Terminal Classic through Postclassic periods while others help elucidate some of Peter Harrison's Uaymil Survey work of the 1970s Quintana Roo Archaeology unfolds a rich archaeological record spanning 2 500 years depicting the depth and breadth of modern archaeological studies within the state It is an important touchstone for Maya and Mesoamerican archaeologists demonstrating the shifting web of connections between Quintanarooense sites and their neighbors and confirming the need to integrate this region into a broader understanding of the ancient Maya Black Meetings & Tourism ,2008 The New York Times Index ,1991 Schwann Spectrum ,1996 Lloyd's List Ports of the World ,2005 Communication During a Disaster Jorge Manuel Morales,1993
