Hunted By The Stag King English Edition:

English Wild Life, by Eric Parker Eric Parker, 1929 Women, Poetry, and Politics in Seventeenth-century Britain Sarah C. E. Ross, 2015

Women Poetry and Politics in Seventeenth Century Britain offers a new account of women's engagement in the poetic and political cultures of seventeenth century England and Scotland based on poetry that was produced and circulated in manuscript. Katherine Philips is often regarded as the first in a cluster of women writers including Margaret Cavendish and Aphra Behn who were political secular literary print published and renowned. Sarah C E Ross explores a new corpus of political poetry by women offering detailed readings of Elizabeth Melville, Anne Southwell, Jane Cavendish, Hester Pulter and Lucy Hutchinson and making the compelling case that female political poetics emerge out of social and religious poetic modes and out of manuscript based authorial practices. Situating each writer in her political and intellectual contexts from early covenanting Scotland to Restoration England, this volume explores women's political articulation in the devotional lyric, biblical verse, paraphrase, occasional verse, elegy and emblem. For women excluded from the public political sphere, these rhetorically modest genres and the figural language of poetry offered vital modes of political expression and women of diverse affiliations use religious and social poetics, the tropes of family and household and the genres of occasionality that proliferated in manuscript culture to imagine the state. Attending also to the transmission and reception of women's poetry in networks of varying reach, Sarah C E Ross reveals continuities and evolutions in women's relationship to politics and poetry and identifies a female tradition of politicised poetry in manuscript spanning the decades before, during and after the Civil Wars.

From the Deer to the Fox Mandy de Belin, 2013-09-01

Between the 17th and 19th centuries, the sport of hunting was transformed: the principal prey changed from deer to fox and the methods of pursuit were revolutionized. Questioning the traditional explanation of the hunting transition—namely that change in the landscape led to a decline of the deer population—this book explores the terrain of Northamptonshire during that time period and seeks alternative justifications. Arguing that the many changes that hunting underwent in England were directly related to the transformation of the hunting horse, this in-depth account demonstrates how the near-thoroughbred horse became the mount of choice for those who hunted in the shires. This book shows how quite literally the thrill of the chase drove the hunting transition.

The Natural History of Pompeii Wilhelmina Mary Feemster, Jashemski, Wilhelmina Feemster Jashemski, Frederick G. Meyer, 2002-09-19

The sudden destruction of Pompeii, Herculaneum and the surrounding Campanian countryside following the eruption of Vesuvius in AD 79 preserved the remarkable evidence that has made possible this reconstruction of the natural history of the local environment. Following the prototype of Pliny the Elder's Natural History, various aspects of the natural history of Pompeii are discussed and analyzed by a team of eminent scientists, many of whom have collaborated with Jashemski during her years of excavation of several gardens in the Vesuvian area. This volume brings together the work of geologists, soil specialists, paleobotanists, botanists, palaeontologists, biologists, chemists,
