Forecasting and Decision-Making in Marine Economy and Management Xuemei Li,Kevin Li,Junjie Wang,Song Ding,2025-08-11 The marine economy and management pertain to the sustainable utilization of marine resources through internal and external coordination across departments with a focus on maximizing social and economic benefits However the persistence of activities such as overfishing offshore oil spills and excessive coastal development has led to escalating issues like offshore eutrophication ocean acidification warming and marine plastic pollution posing significant threats to marine sustainability In alignment with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal 14 substantial progress has been achieved by ocean management researchers in analyzing fishery resource management optimization of marine industrial structures development of marine energy and adaptation of marine climate change These studies hold crucial theoretical significance and practical value for understanding the state of the marine economy guiding management practices ensuring marine ecological security and fostering sustainable ocean development District Energy System Design Christian Inard

,Jérôme Le Dréau,2020-12-29 The articles presented in this Special Issue cover different aspects of the urban planning process such as simulation optimization or decision making The authors highlighted the importance of performing an integrated design of the district considering different sectors different energy vectors and different operation modes In order to better integrate renewable and residual energy sources R ES careful design of systems and storage solutions should be performed Different storage solutions were tested ranging from large scale thermal energy storage to vehicle batteries or the thermal mass of buildings Van der Heijde et al 2019 proposed a two layer design optimization algorithm to design a district heating network with solar thermal collectors seasonal thermal energy storage and excess heat injection Pajot et al 2019 also performed an optimization of the sizing and control of energy systems in a district equipped with heat pumps with thermal energy storage or thermal mass utilization A hybrid distribution system coupling the thermal and electrical networks was proposed by Widl et al 2019 Arnaudo et al 2019 used the vehicle to grid V2G concept to decrease the overloading of the electrical distribution network during heat pump operation Finally Kazmi et al 2019 proposed an integrated decision making planning approach for a better integration of R ES in the distribution network The complexity of urban planning leads to the development of new tools and methodologies Until now operation was poorly integrated in the design phase New urban building energy modeling tools were proposed by the different authors These tools are either based on co simulations or integrated solutions to be able to capture the fine dynamics of a district The difficulty of generating the input data for the models was also discussed Regarding the methodology most articles proposed a two stage optimization procedure to optimize both the operational and design aspects Mixed integer linear programming MILP and genetic algorithms were often used to find optimal solutions
