It aims at disseminating original papers, articles, and reviews on linguistic description and analysis, text discourse studies, teaching/learning, and Portuguese, foreign, and other languages, teachers' education. Assignments across the Curriculum Dan Melzer, 2014-05-15. In Assignments across the Curriculum, Dan Melzer analyzes the rhetorical features and genres of writing assignments through the writing to learn and writing in the disciplines perspectives. Presenting the results of his study of 2101 writing assignments from undergraduate courses in the natural sciences, social sciences, business, and humanities in 100 postsecondary institutions in the United States, Assignments across the Curriculum is unique in its cross-institutional breadth and its focus on writing assignments. The results provide a panoramic view of college writing in the United States. Melzer's framework begins with the rhetorical situations of the assignments, the purposes and audiences, and broadens to include the assignments' genres and discourse community contexts. Among his conclusions is that courses connected to a writing across the curriculum (WAC) initiative ask students to write more often in a greater variety of genres and for a greater variety of purposes and audiences than non-WAC courses do, making a compelling case for the influence of the WAC movement. Melzer's work also reveals patterns in the rhetorical situations, genres, and discourse communities of college writing in the United States. These larger patterns are of interest to WAC practitioners working with faculty across disciplines, to writing center coordinators and tutors working with students who bring assignments from a variety of fields, to composition program administrators, to first-year writing instructors interested in preparing students for college writing, and to high school teachers attempting to bridge the gap between high school and college writing. Undergraduate Research in Online, Virtual, and Hybrid Courses Jennifer C. Coleman, Nancy H. Hensel, William E. Campbell, 2023-07-03. With the growing interest in undergraduate research as a high-impact practice and the recognition that college education is increasingly moving online, this book, the first to do so, provides a framework, guidance from pioneering practitioners, and a range of examples across disciplines on how to engage remote students in research. Two foundational chapters set the scene. For those new to incorporating undergraduate research in their courses, the opening chapter provides an introduction to its evolution and practice and reviews the evidence of its benefits for students, faculty, and institutions. The second addresses the benefit that undergraduate research can bring to online learning and provides an overview of the ways research can be incorporated into online and virtual courses to meet the course and student learning objectives. The remaining chapters illustrate implementation of undergraduate research in courses across many disciplines. They address thematic issues related to the work and its effects on students such as transitioning them from users of to active participants in research and consideration of the technological tools needed to support students in a virtual environment The contributors some of whom have been implementing these practices for some years offer important insights and expertise While the examples range across the behavioral sciences business education the health professions the humanities social sciences and STEM readers will find much of value and inspiration from reading the chapters beyond their disciplines A Co Publication with AAC U
