absorption transient residence time in the cul de sac and the relative impermeability of the corneal epithelial membrane Due to these physiological and anatomical constraints only a small fraction of the drug effectively 1% or even less of the instilled dose is ocularly absorbed The effective dose of medication administered ophthalmically may be altered by increasing the retention time of medication in contact with the surface of the eye To date Pharmaceutical Technologists have tried to develop different novel formulations like gel ocular inserts collagen shields implants liposomes nanoparticles penetration enhancers and in situ gelling systems in order to increase the bioavailability and duration of the therapeutic action of ocular drugs and polymers plays an important role in all these approaches This book provides detailed information regarding all such polymers which have been used and shown to be excellent in improving the bioavailability of ocular drugs Kenya Gazette ,1992-06-26 The Kenya Gazette is an official publication of the government of the Republic of Kenya It contains notices of new legislation notices required to be published by law or policy as well as other announcements that are published for general public information It is published every week usually on Friday with occasional releases of special or supplementary editions within the week Fortschritte Der Physik ,1902 Biodegradable Polymers in Clinical Use and Clinical Development Abraham J.
