The concept of measurement is centrally implicated in a number of mathematical operations yet is not often given the placement it deserves in the elementary mathematics curriculum. By drawing on K-5 classroom research, authors Lehrer and Schauble have been able to articulate a learning progression that describes benchmarks of student learning about measure in length, angle, area, volume, and rational number, exploring related concepts, classroom experiences, and instructional practices at each stage. Offering a unique research-driven resource for helping students develop a deep understanding of measurement to further enhance mathematical understanding as well as further learning in other STEM disciplines, the book will be relevant for scholars, teacher educators, and specialists in math education. The book is accompanied by online resources developed for practitioners, including instructional guides, examples of student thinking, and other teacher-focused materials helping clarify how to bring concepts of measure and rational number to life in classrooms. Making Assessment Matter, Nonie K. Lesaux, Sky H. Marietta, 2012-01-01. All too often, literacy assessments are given only for accountability purposes and fail to be seen as valuable resources for planning and differentiating instruction. This clear, concise book shows K-5 educators how to implement a comprehensive, balanced assessment battery that integrates accountability concerns with data-driven instruction. Teachers learn to use different types of test scores to understand and address students' specific learning needs. The book features an in depth case example of a diverse elementary school that serves many struggling readers and English language learners Reproducible planning and progress monitoring forms can be downloaded and printed in a convenient 8 1 2 x 11 size Provided by publisher International Index to Periodicals ,1924 An author and subject index to publications in fields of anthropology archaeology and classical studies economics folklore geography history language and literature music philosophy political science religion and theology sociology and theatre arts World Friendship Evaline Dowling,1928
