published in 1978 World Economic Outlook, October 2016 International Monetary Fund. Research Dept.,2016-10-04

According to the October 2016 World Economic Outlook global growth is projected to slow to 3.1 percent in 2016 before recovering to 3.4 percent in 2017. The forecast revised down by 0.1 percentage point for 2016 and 2017 relative to April's report reflects a more subdued outlook for advanced economies following the June U.K. vote in favor of leaving the European Union. Brexit and weaker than expected growth in the United States. These developments have put further downward pressure on global interest rates as monetary policy is now expected to remain accommodative for longer. Although the market reaction to the Brexit shock was reassuringly orderly, the ultimate impact remains very unclear as the fate of institutional and trade arrangements between the United Kingdom and the European Union is uncertain. Financial market sentiment toward emerging market economies has improved with expectations of lower interest rates in advanced economies, reduced concern about China's near-term prospects following policy support to growth, and some firming of commodity prices. But prospects differ sharply across countries and regions, with emerging Asia in general and India in particular showing robust growth and sub-Saharan Africa experiencing a sharp slowdown. In advanced economies, a subdued outlook subject to sizable uncertainty and downside risks may fuel further political discontent, with anti-integration policy platforms gaining more traction. Several emerging market and developing economies still face daunting policy challenges in adjusting to weaker commodity prices. These worrisome prospects make the need for a broad-based policy response to raise growth and manage vulnerabilities more urgent than ever.

Reality Check Roberta Gatti, Daniel Lederman, Asif Islam, Rachel Yuting Fan, Christina Wood, Rana Lotfi, Ha Nguyen, Mennatallah Mousa, 2022-04-11

The Middle East and North Africa economies face an uncertain recovery. The war in Ukraine presents significant challenges to the global economy and the MENA region. Inflationary pressures brought about by the pandemic are likely to be further exacerbated by the conflict. The potential for rising food prices is even higher, which is likely to hurt the wallets of the poor and vulnerable in the region. The COVID-19 pandemic continues to cast a shadow. As the latest variant sweeps over the region, countries grapple with a host of problems depending on initial conditions and policy priorities. The region, like the rest of the world, is not out of the woods yet. Vaccinations remain the effective path out of the pandemic, leading to lower hospitalizations and death rates. Testing helps curb the spread. During times of uncertainty, it is important to not be overconfident about the region's growth prospects. Growth forecasts serve as a significant signpost for policymakers to chart a path forward. Over the last decade, growth forecasts in the MENA region have often been inaccurate and overly optimistic, which can lead to economic contractions down the road due to ebullient borrowing. There is considerable room for the region to improve its forecasts, which are largely hindered by opaque data systems, growth volatility, and conflict. The MENA region lags considerably in the timely production of credible statistics. A key finding of the report is that the best way to improve forecasts is to provide forecasters with as much good quality information as possible.

Middle East and North Africa Economic Monitor, April 2015 Shantayanan

Devarajan,Lili Mottaghi,2015-04-14 The economic outlook for the Middle East and North Africa MENA region in 2015 is slightly more favorable than in 2013 14 when the region as a whole grew at 3 percent a year The World Bank group s latest MENA Economic Monitor projects MENA s economic growth to average 5 2 percent in 2015 driven by domestic consumption easing political tensions crowding in investments in Egypt and Tunisia and full resumption of oil production in Libya However the violent conflicts in Syria Iraq Gaza Yemen and Libya with their spillovers to Lebanon and Jordan could make MENA s economic prospects bleak The report has a special focus on the corrosive nature of the large energy subsidies in MENA The MENA region is currently experiencing growth below potential high unemployment urban air pollution and congestion and severe water scarcity that is undermining agriculture The report shows how energy subsidies have contributed to these development challenges Reforming these subsidies therefore should be one of the highest priorities of policymakers
