assessment of the humanitarian response design and implementation and Assess overall programme and draw technical market and methodological implications for the design of future humanitarian responses and their contribution to resilience building This Discussion Paper provides considerable detail on which facets of the implementation of FIRP were successful and where implementation fell short in addressing the needs of the affected population in ensuring that Malawi was better prepared for future food crises and in laying a foundation for improved resilience in the face of such shocks for both the affected households and Malawi as a whole The 2016 17 FIRP was largely successful in preventing disaster and saving lives and livelihoods However the assessment of the design and implementation of the FIRP highlighted the high level of dependency of the Malawi government on its development partners for resources to undertake such humanitarian responses and the significant deficiencies in the technical and institutional capacity of the institutions responsible for responding Unless the cycle of food insecurity is broken and the resilience of Malawian food systems increased the government of Malawi and its development partners will continue to depend on FIRP type interventions to save people s lives and protect them from food insecurity and hunger
