Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 Maringe, Felix, Prew, Martin, 2015-05-05
Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 An Independent Review presents a collection of 15 important essays on different aspects of education in Gauteng since the advent of democracy in 1994 These essays talk to what a provincial education department does and how and why it does these things whether it be about policy resourcing or implementing projects Each essay is written by one or more specialist in the relevant focus area The book is written to be accessible to the general reader as well as being informative and an essential resource for the specialist reader It sheds light on aspects of how a provincial department operates and why and with what consequences certain decisions have been made in education over the last 20 turbulent years both nationally and provincially There has been no attempt to fit the book's chapters into a particular ideological or educational paradigm and as a result the reader will find differing views on various aspects of the Gauteng Department of Education's present and past We leave the reader to decide to what extent the GDE has fulfilled its educational mandate over the last 20 years Knowledge, Curriculum and Equity Brian Barrett, Ursula Hoadley, John Morgan, 2017-07-20 In 2008 the first in a series of symposia established a social realist case for knowledge as an alternative to the relativist tendencies of the constructivist post structuralist and postmodernist approaches dominant in the sociology of education The second symposium focused on curriculum and the development of a theoretical language grounded in social realism to talk about issues of knowledge and curriculum Finally the third symposium brought together researchers in a broad range of contexts to build on these ideas and arguments and with a concerted empirical focus bring these social realist ideas and arguments into conversation with data Knowledge Curriculum and Equity Social Realist Perspectives contains the work of the third symposium where the strengths and gaps in the social realist approach are identified and where there is critical recognition of the need to incrementally extend the theories through empirical study Fundamentally the problem that social realism is seeking to address is about understanding the social conditions of knowledge production and exchange as well as its structuring in the curriculum and in pedagogy The central concern is with the on going social reproduction of inequality through schooling and exploring whether and how foregrounding specialised knowledge and its access holds the possibility for interrupting it This book consists of 13 chapters by different authors working in Oceania Asia Europe Africa and North America From very different vantage points the authors focus their theoretical and empirical sights on the assumptions about knowledge that underpin educational processes and the pursuit of more equitable schooling for all Making Education Inclusive Sharon Moonsamy, Elizabeth Walton, 2015-09-18 Exclusionary pressures and practices are pervasive in education despite the clamour for more inclusive education Even as classrooms worldwide become more diverse education is unlikely to become inclusive without deliberate efforts to dismantle exclusion and enable inclusion This book is a compilation of contributions to the conversation about what these efforts might entail The conversation has its origins in the Making Education Inclusive Conference held in 2013 which brought together academics and practitioners from Southern Africa and other countries Given the expectation that teachers should play a key role in promoting inclusion it is not surprising to find significant interest in teacher education from many of the contributing authors Their concerns range from explicit teacher development for pedagogical responsiveness to learner diversity to overcoming the epistemological marginalisation that learners experience where teachers are not fully confident of their subject content and how to teach it Access to education is clearly not enough and other contributors to this book concern themselves with ways in which structures and systems could be reconstituted to enable meaningful inclusion This might mean looking at how teachers might use tiered systems of behaviour support and various metacognitive strategies how physical access can be promoted on a university campus and understanding how parents think about disability Each chapter represents a different perspective on what it might mean to resist educational exclusion in its many forms and each offers possible ways to make education more inclusive
