of multilingualism that is concerned with how multilinguals learn additional languages and the role that their multilingual background plays in the process of language learning The volume points out some current directions in this particular research area with a number of studies that reveal the complexity of multilingual language learning and its typical variation and dynamics The eight studies gathered in the book represent a wide range of theoretical positions and offer empirical evidence from learners belonging to different age groups and with varying levels of proficiency in the target language as well as in other non native languages belonging to the learner s repertoire Diverse linguistic phenomena and language combinations are viewed from a perspective where all previously acquired languages have a potential role to play in the process of learning a new language In the six empirical studies contexts of language learning in school or at university level constitute the main outlet for data collection These studies involve several language backgrounds and language combinations and focus on various linguistic features The specific target languages in the empirical studies are English French and Italian The volume also includes two theoretical chapters The first one conceptualizes and describes the different types of multilingual language learning investigated in the volume i third or additional language learning by learners who are bilinguals from an early age and ii third or additional language learning by people who have previous experience of one or more non native languages learned after the critical period In particular issues related to the roles played by age and proficiency in multilingual acquisition are discussed The other theoretical chapter conceptualizes the grammatical category of aspect reviewing previous studies on second and third language acquisition of aspect Different models for L3 learning and their relevance and implications for representations of aspect and for potential differences in the processing of second and third language acquisition are also examined in this chapter As a whole the book presents current research into third or additional language learning by young learners or adults considering some of the most important factors for the complex process of multilingual language learning the age of onset of the additional language and that of previously acquired languages social and affective factors instruction language proficiency and literacy the typology of the background languages and the role they play in shaping syntax lexicon and other components of a L3 The idea for this book emanates from the symposium Multilingualism language proficiency and age organized by Camilla Bardel and Laura Sanchez at Stockholm University Department of Language Education in December 2016

Second Language Learning Before Adulthood Vanessa De Wilde, Claire Goriot, 2022-10-24 Researchers have looked into the role of individual differences in second language learning and found that differences between learners in areas such as language aptitude language learning motivation and exposure to the language influence second language learning Most of this research concerned adults Far fewer studies have addressed the role of individual differences in second language learning of young learners As second language learning programmes tend to start earlier than before and children are nowadays frequently exposed to a foreign language in social settings such as online games and social media studying the role of individual differences in young learners can contribute both to SLA theories and to evidence based L2 education This book discusses recent findings concerning the role of individual differences in language learning in young learners The chapters in the book concern different topics linked to internal individual differences such as language aptitude motivation attitude and external individual differences such as exposure and type of instruction the relative contribution of internal and external factors to language learning and the interplay between the two types of individual differences
