Disasters in Paradise Amanda D. Concha-Holmes,Anthony Oliver-Smith,2019-10-11 Long considered ground zero for global climate change in the United States Florida presents the perfect case study for disaster risk and prevention Building on the idea that disasters are produced by historical and contemporary social processes as well as natural phenomena Amanda D Concha Holmes and Anthony Oliver Smith present a collection of ethnographic case studies that examine the social and environmental effects of Florida s public and private sector development policies Contributors to Disasters in Paradise explore how these practices have increased the vulnerability of Floridians to hurricanes tornadoes floods droughts frosts and forest fires A Handbook of Sustainable Building Design and Engineering Dejan Mumovic,Mat

Santamouris,2013-06-17 The combined challenges of health comfort climate change and energy security cross the boundaries of traditional building disciplines This authoritative collection focusing mostly on energy and ventilation provides the current and next generation of building engineering professionals with what they need to work closely with many disciplines to meet these challenges A Handbook of Sustainable Building Engineering covers how to design engineer and monitor a building in a manner that minimises the emissions of greenhouse gases how to adapt the environment fabric and services of existing and new buildings to climate change how to improve the environment in and around buildings to provide better health comfort security and productivity and provides crucial expertise on monitoring the performance of buildings once they are occupied The authors explain the principles behind built environment engineering and offer practical guidance through international case studies Building Governance and Climate Change Richard Lorch, Jacques

Laubscher, Edwin Hon-wan Chan, Henk Visscher, 2019-10-23 The contribution of buildings to climate change is widely acknowledged This book investigates how building regulatory systems are addressing the current and future effects of climate change and how these systems can be improved After presenting a comprehensive overview of how the current building regulatory system developed some of the inadequacies are identified The largest part of the book examines the potential for innovative policy solutions to address the real world problem of mitigating and adapting buildings to climate change This publication contributes significantly to our understanding of the complexities of long term energy efficiency in buildings This book was originally published as a special issue of the Building Research Information journal House

Rating Schemes Maria Kordjamshidi, 2010-11-25 House Rating Schemes provides information to students architects and researchers in the field of the built environment It reviews current House Rating Schemes HRS used in different countries and investigates how these schemes assess the thermal performance of a house It challenges the way that these schemes assess building energy efficiency and their inability to evaluate free running buildings which do not need an energy load for heating and cooling indoor environments Finally the book proposes a new index and method for HRS in which the efficiency of a house design can be evaluated with reference to its thermal performance in both free running and conditioned operation modes The book deals with various approaches and methods for rating buildings on the basis of different indexes with implications for both energy efficiency and thermal comfort It also guides readers through a computer simulation program for developing a rating system that evaluates and ranks building energy efficiency Ethics for the Built Environment Peter
