

BASIC LOCK PICKING

First of all, lock picking must be divided into two categories which are commonly confused:

The first category is picking (the act of carefully manipulating one pin at a time for the expressed purpose of duplicating the action of the proper cut key in a given cylinder, by something other than the proper cut key itself).

The second category is raking (the less specific act of taking a raking instrument for the expressed purpose of gliding the tool across tumblers of approximately the same depth in a general yet sequential fashion).

Either of these techniques is intended to be a method of convenience for opening locks in emergency type situations. Obviously, the method for making keys referred to as impressioning would be far more desirable since both processes take about the same time and only one yields both an open lock and a working key. However, there are times when picking is the most logical method to use (i.e. when someone is locked out of a house or car and the keys are inside). Both methods are predicated on their efficiency and, should either take an undue amount of time, it is questionable how worthwhile they are when a method such as drilling is so quick and sure, though more expensive.
