Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 10 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control group or a training group. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle, while the training group participated in a 10-week training program. The training program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The sessions were performed on a cycle ergometer at a workload of 150 watts. The HR and EE were measured at the beginning and end of the training program. The HR and EE of the training group increased significantly after 10 weeks of training, while the HR and EE of the control group remained unchanged. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.
