English Proficiency Test Uwi Past Paper:

Caribbean Language Issues, Old & New Pauline Christie, 1996 Caribbean Language Issues Old and New was conceived as a tribute to Professor Mervyn Alleyne who is widely acknowledged as a pioneer in the field of Caribbean language on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday. A wide variety of issues are dealt with: phonology, syntax, discourse, creole, genesis, language problems in education, among others. Some authors revisit topics on which Alleyne himself has written, building his insights in many cases, while others explore areas which had not been investigated previously. This work provides access to recent research by Caribbean scholars and goes some way towards filling a gap, particularly in its usefulness to students of linguistics and teachers of English. At the same time, the uninitiated reader who decides to explore its pages will not be unrewarded, since the style is simple and direct and the content for the most part not highly technical. Creole

Composition Vivette Milson-Whyte, Raymond Oenbring, 2019-08-13 Creole Composition is a collection featuring essays by scholars and teachers/researchers working with students in the Anglophone Caribbean. Arising from a need to define what writing instruction in the Caribbean means, Creole Composition expands the existing body of research literature about the teaching of writing at the postsecondary level in the Caribbean region. To this end, it speaks to critical disciplinary conversations of rhetoric and composition and academic literacies while addressing specific issues with teaching academic writing to Anglophone Caribbean students. It features chapters addressing language approaches to teaching, assessing writing, administration and research in postsecondary education, as well as professionalization of writing instructors in the region. Some chapters reflect traditional Caribbean attitudes to postsecondary writing instruction; other chapters seek to reform these traditional practices. Some chapters' interventions emerge from discussions in writing studies, while other chapters reflect their authors' primary training in other fields such as applied linguistics, education, and literary studies. Additionally, the chapters use a variety of styles and methods, ranging from highly personal, reflective essays to theoretical pieces and empirical studies following IMRaD format. Creole Composition, the first of its kind in the region, provides much needed knowledge to the community of teacher-researchers in the Anglophone Caribbean and elsewhere in the fields of rhetoric and composition, writing studies, and academic literacies. In suggesting frameworks around which to build and further institutionalize and professionalize writing studies in the region, the collection advances the broader field of writing studies beyond national boundaries. Contributors include Tyrone Ali, Annife Campbell, Tresecka Campbell, Dawes Valerie Combie, Jacob Dyer, Spiegel Brianne, Jaquette Carmeneta Jones, Clover Jones, McKenzie Beverley, Josephs Christine E, Kozikowski, Vivette Milson Whyte, Kendra L. The acrolect in Jamaica G. Alison Irvine-Sobers ,2018 An ability to speak Jamaican Standard English is the stated requirement for any managerial or frontline position in corporate Jamaica This research looks at the phonological variation that occurs in the formal speech of this type of employee and focuses on the specific cohort chosen to represent Jamaica in interactions with local and international clients The variation that does emerge shows both the presence of some features traditionally characterized as Creole and a clear avoidance of other features found in basilectal and mesolectal Jamaican Some phonological items are prerequisites for good English variables that define the user as someone who speaks English even if other Creole variants are present The ideologies of language and language use that Jamaican speakers hold about good English clearly reflect the centuries old coexistence of English and Creole and suggest local norms must be our starting point for discussing the acrolect
