We, the Survivors Tash Aw, 2019-09-03 From the author of The Harmony Silk Factory and Five Star Billionaire a compelling depiction of a man's act of violence set against the backdrop of Asia in flux Ah Hock is an ordinary man of simple means Born and raised in a Malaysian fishing village he favors stability above all a preference at odds with his rapidly modernizing surroundings So what brings him to kill a man This question leads a young privileged journalist to Ah Hock's door While the victim has been mourned and the killer has served time for the crime Ah Hock's motive remains unclear even to himself His vivid confession unfurls over extensive interviews with the journalist herself a local whose life has taken a very different course The process forces both the speaker and his listener to reckon with systems of power race and class in a place where success is promised to all yet delivered only to its lucky heirs An uncompromising portrait of an outsider navigating a society in transition Tash Aw's anti nostalgic tale We the Survivors holds its tension to the very end In the wake of loss and destruction hope is among the survivors

Transitive Cultures Christopher B. Patterson, 2018-04-02 Texts written by Southeast Asian migrants have often been read taught and studied under the label of multicultural literature But what if the ideology of multiculturalism with its emphasis on authenticity and identifiable cultural difference is precisely what this literature resists Transitive Cultures offers a new perspective on transpacific Anglophone literature revealing how these chameleonic writers enact a variety of hybrid transnational identities and intimacies Examining literature from Malaysia Singapore and the Philippines as well as from Southeast Asian migrants in Canada Hawaii and the U S mainland this book considers how these authors use English strategically as a means for building interethnic alliances and critiquing ruling power structures in both Southeast Asia and North America Uncovering a wealth of texts from queer migrants those who resist ethnic stereotypes and those who feel few ties to their ostensible homelands Transitive Cultures challenges conventional expectations regarding diaspora and minority writers

Neoliberalism and Contemporary Literary Culture

Mitchum Huehls, Rachel Greenwald Smith, 2017-09-19 How has the pervasive spread of free market thinking affected contemporary literature Neoliberalism has been a buzzword in literary studies for well over a decade but its meaning remains ambiguous and its salience contentious In Neoliberalism and Contemporary Literary Culture Mitchum Huehls and Rachel Greenwald Smith offer a wide ranging exploration of contemporary literature through the lens of neoliberalism s economic social and cultural ascendance Bringing together accessible and provocative essays from top literary scholars this innovative collection examines neoliberalism s influence on literary theory and methodology literary form literary representation and literary institutions A four phase approach to the historical emergence of neoliberalism from the early 1970s to the present helps to clarify the complexity of the relationship between neoliberalism and literary culture Layering that history over the diverse changes in a US Anglo literary field that has moved away from postmodern forms and sensibilities the book argues that many literary developments including the return to realism the rise of the memoir the embrace of New Materialist theory and the pursuit of aesthetic autonomy make more coherent sense when viewed in light of neoliberalism s ever increasing expansion into the cultural sphere The essays gathered here engage a diverse range of theorists including Michel Foucault Wendy Brown Giorgio Agamben Bruno Latour Maurice Merleau Ponty Gary Becker and Eve Sedgwick to address the reciprocal relationship between neoliberalism and conceptual fields such as biopolitics affect phenomenology ecology and new materialist ontology These theoretical perspectives are complemented by innovative readings of contemporary works of literature by writers such as Jennifer Egan Ben Lerner Gillian Flynn Teju Cole Jonathan Franzen Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie Salvador Plascencia E L James Lisa Robertson Kenneth Goldsmith and many others Neoliberalism and Contemporary Literary Culture is essential reading for anyone invested in the ever changing state of literary culture

What Postcolonial Theory Doesn't Say Anna Bernard, Ziad Elmarsafy, Stuart Murray, 2015-08-11 This book reclaims postcolonial theory addressing persistent limitations in the geographical disciplinary and methodological assumptions of its dominant formations It emerges however from an investment in the future of postcolonial studies and a commitment to its basic premise namely that literature and culture are fundamental to the response to structures of colonial and imperial domination To a certain extent postcolonial theory is a victim of its own success not least because of the institutionalization of the insights that it has enabled Now that these insights no longer seem new it is hard to know what the field should address beyond its general commitments Yet the renewal of popular anti imperial energies across the globe provides an important opportunity to reassert the political and theoretical value of the postcolonial as a comparative interdisciplinary and oppositional paradigm This collection makes a claim for what postcolonial theory can say through the work of scholars articulating what it still cannot or will not say It explores ideas that a more aesthetically sophisticated postcolonial theory might be able to address focusing on questions of visibility performance and literariness Contributors highlight some of the shortcomings of current postcolonial theory in relation to contemporary political developments such as

Zimbabwean land reform postcommunism and the economic rise of Asia Finally they address the disciplinary geographical and methodological exclusions from postcolonial studies through a detailed focus on new disciplinary directions management studies international relations disaster studies overlooked locations and perspectives Palestine Weimar Germany the commons and the necessity of materialist analysis for understanding both the contemporary world and world literary systems
