Computing Stephen H. Kaisler, 2025-07-23 This volume discusses British firms that were engaged in electronics and defence designed and manufactured general purpose computer systems in support of their mission focus The other major vendors saw opportunities for computer systems within their respective domains and proceeded to fill those gaps For each vendor we examine their system architecture operating systems where data is available programming languages and applications Unique features are pointed out that characterize each vendor Most notable was Ferranti which began with a collaboration with the University of Manchester UK then branched out to pursue independent designs for industrial control After Marconi Electronics absorbed several other vendors it based its machines on University of Manchester systems The Engineering Mechanics Industrial Development and Engineering Corporation EMIDEC focused on business data processing where its EMIDEC 1100 became the International Computers and Tabulators ICT 1301 Standard Telephone and Cables STC developed the ZEBRA for use in scientific and mathematical computing and pioneered the use of plug in modules These firms continued innovation in computing in different areas but eventually disappeared through mergers as the computer industry consolidated through government intervention including ICT to form International Computers Limited ICL ICL was acquired by Fujitsu Corporation in the 1990s in whose systems many of these ideas survive today In hindsight the evolution of computing hardware design and development and manufacturing processes was a key contribution of these companies
